Archbishop Wood High School

Office of the President

Dear Friends,

Tonight we recognize six new members as we induct them into the Archbishop Wood High School Hall of Fame. These are alumni who have served their community, our faith, and their friends in a most distinctive way. We are most proud of our alumni! After leaving the halls of Archbishop Wood, they began their journey to follow their hopes and aspirations, which would lead them to various careers in which they would serve to make a better life for all.

Since the doors of Archbishop Wood opened in 1967, over twenty-thousand young men and women have ventured out into the world to leave their mark on society. There are doctors, lawyers, educators, artists, entrepreneurs in every facet of business; there are alums who have chosen the religious life; graduates who have become an astronaut, an admiral, a state representative, a federal judge, as well as many others who have committed their life to the military. It is most impressive to see and hear of the accomplishments and successes of our alumni. It makes me very proud to be attached to such a wonderful and caring "Viking" community.

Congratulations to our new inductees as you enter the Hall of Fame of Archbishop Wood High School and a special thank you to all of the Hall of Fame members who are with us this evening, as well as those who could not attend. May God continue to smile upon you and your families. God Bless you and thanks for being a "Viking"!

Sincerely yours,

Gary V. Zimmaro

Alma Mater

We salute you Alma Mater
Hail with pride our honored seal
And beneath our glowing colors
Pledge to you our Faith and Zeal.

With our banner's cross to guide us
Bringing wisdom to the world
Ever by our faithful striving
Will our colors stand unfurled.

Hail the black, green and gold
Of Archbishop Wood
May we bring to your banner renown
For in Youth's loyal might
Serving God and the right
Is Alma Mater's radiant crown
Is Alma Mater's radiant crown.

History of the School

The School Site

Ground was broken for the twin Archbishop Wood High Schools on June 20, 1963, by the Right Reverend Monsignor Edward T. Hughes, M.A., Superintendent of Schools for the Archdiocese of Philadelphia. The site of the two high schools was 32 acres of former farmland located at the intersections of State Highway 263 (York Road) and State Highway 132 (Street Road) in Warminster Township, Bucks County.

Archbishop James Frederick Wood

The schools were named for the fifth Bishop and first Archbishop of Philadelphia, the Most Reverend James F. Wood, D.D. The Archbishop, born on April 27, 1813 in Philadelphia, was a convert to the Faith. He was baptized in the First Unitarian Church in Philadelphia. Shortly before his twenty-fifth birthday, he was received into the Catholic Church. A year later, he was sent to Rome to prepare for the priesthood. After his ordination on March 25, 1844, he served in the Diocese of Cincinnati.

In 1856, Reverend James F. Wood was sent to Philadelphia by the Holy See and was appointed as Co-adjutor with the right to succession to Bishop John Neumann. For three years, Bishop Wood worked closely with Bishop Neumann as the Philadelphia Catholic School System began to take shape. He succeeded to the See on January 5, 1860 when Bishop Neumann, now revered as St. John Neumann, died.

In 1875, the Holy See raised Philadelphia to the dignity of a Metropolitan See, naming Bishop Wood as the first Archbishop. After serving the people of Philadelphia devotedly for twenty-three years, Archbishop Wood died on June 20, 1883.

The People of Archbishop Wood High School

When the twin schools opened in 1964, the Founding Principals were the Reverend Joseph A. Shields, J.C.D. (Girls School) and the Reverend Peter Kelkermanns, C.I.C.M. (Boys School). The original faculty consisted of Diocesan Priests, members of the Congregation of the Immaculate Heart of Mary (C.I.C.M.), a Belgian community of missionary priests; Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary (IHM), Sisters of St. Joseph (SSJ), Religious Sisters of Mercy (RSM), and devoted lay teachers. Other religious orders who served the community include the Vincentian Fathers (CM), the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales (OSFS), and the Religious of the Assumption (RA).

In March 1990, the Archdiocese announced that the two separate schools would merge, effective July 1, 1990, to be known as Archbishop Wood High School. The first principal of the merged school was the Reverend John A. Close.

In 1994, a new model for administration was introduced at Archbishop Wood High School. Ms. Catherine Murray was named Principal, and Reverend James Beisel was appointed President. A state of the art baseball facility was constructed, and a multi-cast computer lab was completed.

In the spring of 1999, Reverend Joseph Kelley was appointed President. Over the next several years, every classroom was equipped with computers and Internet access.

Dr. Frederick Ciao was named President in 2003. Dr. Ciao has focused on making numerous improvements to the building and grounds with special focus on technology upgrades. The school's first ever capital campaign and development initiatives are addressing much needed tuition assistance programs.

Mrs. Mary Harkins added her talents to the school's administrative staff with her appointment as Principal in June of 2005.

In January 2010, Mr. Gary V. Zimmaro was named the fourth President of Archbishop Wood. Many additions and innovations have taken place including a Piano Lab and New Science Lab.

Development of the School Plant

Many changes have been made to the school facilities over the years. In 1987 Cardinal John Krol announced the construction of an auditorium with a seating capacity of 1,000. This new building would physically link the two school buildings as the original plans for the school had intended. Our beautiful auditorium, opened in 1989, stands as a lasting tribute to the generosity of Mrs. Sophia A. Friedman and the Friedman Family.

Archbishop Wood Today

The second decade of the 21st century has seen changes in all aspects of Archbishop Wood: the physical plant, academics, technology, the arts, activities and athletics.

New classroom doors have been installed throughout the building, four student lavatories have had total renovations, and the Library has become The Learning Commons. The Learning Commons is a relaxed and inviting space filled with technology where students work, study or collaborate. The Learning Commons also has a coffee shop for the students.

Many new electives and Advanced Placement classes have been added to our academic program. Each year over 125 junior and senior students take college courses either through the Diocesan Scholars Program or Dual Enrollment classes with Bucks County Community College. Wood101/Freshman Studies helps all 9th grade students become accustomed to high school and helps to prepare them for college and beyond. New for 2104-15 will be Virtual Learning Classes in Advanced Placement Calculus BC, AP Psychology and AP Micro and Macro Economics. Reflecting the interests of our students beyond high school, Wood has added a Medical Careers Academy and a STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) program.

Technology is a major part of education at Wood. All classrooms are equipped with computers, smart boards and projectors. The entire building is wireless and students use their own devices (BYOD) in class. New classes in technology have been added, including web design, CAD and Virtual Business. Music is again part of the curriculum. Along with band classes, students have the opportunity to study piano and strings. The talents of our music students have been rewarded through membership in the All Catholic Music programs. Studio art students have been recognized with numerous awards and scholarships including two students who in recent years won the Dad Vail poster contest, placing their artwork throughout the city of Philadelphia.

New activities include Athletes Helping Athletes, THON based on the Penn State THON, Viking Night, the Mr. Viking Pageant, and our nationally recognized Robotics Team.

Since joining PIAA (Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association) in 2008, Wood has received 5 Gold Medals as State Champions and 7 Silver Medals as runners up. Our sports teams continue to win many Catholic League and District XII Championships.

While many Catholic schools have experienced a declining enrollment, Wood has been blessed with a stable student population. Recruitment and retention are important aspects of our school. The use of television and radio advertising has become staples of Wood's marketing program.

Many things change; many things stay the same. Students currently attending Archbishop Wood continue the Viking tradition of excellence in all aspects of our school's life. Most importantly each of our students is committed to being the best person he or she can be, taking care of each other and those in the community who are less fortunate.

As Archbishop Wood High School begins its second 50 years, it is well-positioned for continued growth and success in the future.

Dr. Patrick Kenny

Arts/Education/Entertainment

A member of Archbishop Wood's Class of 1971, Dr. Patrick Kenny has been a role model and leader in the community, and is being inducted into the Hall of Fame because of his efforts in the field of Education, Arts, and Entertainment.

During his time at Wood, Dr. Kenny was involved in numerous extracurricular activities, including Band, Community Service Corps, and Glee Club. After graduating from Wood, he attended Allentown College (now DeSales University), where he graduated in 1978. Dr. Kenny then received his MSN from the University of Pennsylvania in 1980, and his EdD from Columbia University's Teachers College in 1994. Dr. Kenny began working in HIV/AIDS nursing when the epidemic began in the early 1980's and has continued in that field for more than 30 years. He was a founding member of the AIDS Task Force of Philadelphia, and served on the Board of Directors. Dr. Kenny was asked by the Surgeon General to be on his panel for AIDS awareness and treatment. In addition, he has authored several textbook chapters and nursing journal articles, as well as speaking extensively across the country and the world. Dr. Kenny presented on "Men in Nursing" at the International Council of Nursing in Malta in 2011, and also at the International History of Nursing Conference in Denmark in 2015.

For exhibiting qualities of excellence, we are proud to welcome Dr. Patrick Kenny into the Archbishop Wood Hall of Fame.

Salena Lynn Barone

Athletics

Salena Barone graduated from Archbishop Wood in 1994 and since then has gone on to achieve success in the business of maintenance and repair sales. She is currently a District Sales Manager for HD Supply Facilities Maintenance, and also assists in the training of new managers in the Consultative Selling Course.

After graduating from Wood, Salena attended Florida State University, where she studied Marketing/Communications. She graduated in 1998 and worked as a manager at Circuit City stores in Charlotte, NC. She then worked as Account manager at the Whirlpool Corporation from 2000-2008.

Aside from her success in her day-to-day job, Salena also has performed various community service jobs. She worked at Habitat for Humanity in New Orleans in 2006. She participated in "dress for success," Raleigh, North Carolina in 2013, and helped collect sneakers for inter-city schools in Atlanta. Some of her other hobbies include Bowling (she competed nationally on the women's intercollegiate Bowling team) and running. She has even completed 10 half-marathons since 2010.

Looking back at her life at Archbishop Wood, Salena has many fond memories, such as being a member of the first fully co-ed class at Wood in 1994. She was also an active member of the National Honor Society at Wood, and remembers her first time public speaking in her sophomore year English class.

For her appreciation of her Alma mater, and successful endeavors beyond high school, we welcome Salena Barone into the Archbishop Wood Hall of Fame.

Sr. Mary DePaul

Religious

An influential and large part of the religious community, Sr. Mary DePaul has continued the Catholic values taught to her at Archbishop Wood. Since her graduation in 1977, Sister has truly shown excellence in the field of Religious Life.

After graduating from Wood, Sister Mary DePaul spent some time studying courses in science and literature at Bucks County Community College. In October 1978, she decided to join the Noviate/Formation Program at the Rosary Hill Home in Hawthorne, NY, and in September 1981, she continued her studies at Pace University's Leinhard School of Nursing. Sister received her Associate Degree in Nursing in June 1983 and immediately began working as a nurse at the Rosary Hill Home. She left her position two years later to be a nurse at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Home in Atlanta, GA. Shortly after, she was promoted to the Director of Nursing. She then left to be the Director of Nursing at St. Rose's Home in New York. In 1998, Sister returned to Rosary Hill Home, until 2007 when she left for a position at Our Lady of Good Counsel in St. Paul, MN. Currently, she is the Director of Operations, Director of Nursing, Religious Superior, and Board member at the Sacred Heart Home in Philadelphia.

Sister Mary DePaul has also been an active member in the community. As a Dominican Sister of Hawthorne, she nurses incurable cancer patients in financial need. Sister has worked to preserve and catalogue documents related to her community's history, in particular the life of the foundress. She also works on the Rose Hawthorne Guild Newsletter, as well as writing "Rose Hawthorne: Finding Mary at the Foot of the Cross," an article for the 2014 Fall edition of Mary Immaculate Magazine. She was also the Community Government Councilor from 2002-2012.

For exhibiting qualities of religious excellence, we are proud to welcome Sr. Mary DePaul into the Archbishop Wood Hall of Fame.

Pennsylvania State Representative Thomas Murt

Business/Military

In Archbishop Wood's history of successful graduates, few have achieved the same level of success as Class of '78 graduate, Thomas Murt. After graduating from Wood, Tom went on to a career in politics, a field in which he has strived for excellence and has accomplished many goals. Aside from his work-related success, Tom still devotes time to helping his community and supporting his former high school. These are some of the many reasons Thomas Murt for which being inducted into the 2016 Wood Hall of Fame.

After graduating from Archbishop Wood in 1978, Tom went to college at Penn State University, and earned his masters at La Salle University. In 2006, Tom was elected as a Pennsylvania State Representative. As representative, he has played an active role in promoting some important activities and organizations in our community. He is the current Chairman of the Human Services Subcommittee on Mental Health, and the Bipartisan House of Representatives Disability Caucus. He has also organized various food and clothing distribution programs to benefit homeless citizens of the Philadelphia area. However, perhaps Tom's greatest work has been with his various Veterans service projects. In Pennsylvania he is even known as the Voice of Veterans.

Tom's devotion to Pennsylvania's veterans comes as no surprise, given the fact that he served in the military from 1990-2007. He served overseas in Iraq from 2003-2004. For his service, he was nominated for the Humanitarian Service Medal, and was nominated twice for the Army Reserve Command's "New Commissioned Officer of the Year."

Since graduating from Wood, Tom has also gone on to work in several other schools. In the mid-80s, Tom taught business at Archbishop Ryan, and currently instructs part time at Penn State Abington. Aside from this, he also has a very impressive coaching career as well. He was the head wrestling coach at La Salle University from 1983-1989. When he became the coach, he was the youngest D1 head coach in the entire country. He helped make LaSalle's team one of the most successful teams on the east coast, and took them to the National Catholic Invitational Wrestling tournament every year of his career.

Despite his success later on in his life, Tom still looks back humbly on his days as an Archbishop Wood Viking. His favorite memories include being a member of the Student Council, the "first elected office he ever held," and, of course, being a member of the Wrestling program for four years. He specifically remembers Mr. Peters very fondly as both a teacher and coach.

Archbishop Wood is a place where students are driven to succeed, and no one is a greater testament to this than Thomas Murt. Because of the role he plays in our community and the work he has done after high school, we proudly welcome Thomas Murt into the Archbishop Wood Hall of Fame.

Herbert Hopkins

Service

A member of the Class of 1970, Herbert Hopkins has continually exhibited excellence, especially in the field of Service. Herbert calls his time at Archbishop Wood his favorite memory, and so for his constant dedication to Wood, he is being inducted into the Hall of Fame.

After graduating from Wood in 1970, Herb attended Dartmouth College. There he was co-captain of the football team, and graduated in 1974 with a degree in English Literature. Herb spent the next five years in sales, traveling around the country. He began working as a manager for a commercial diving company in Alaska. Herb used this time to travel and enjoy the beauty of Alaska until he decided to go graduate school. After graduating from the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business in 1981 with his MBA in Business Administration, he worked as an institutional broker with First Boston. Eventually, he left his position with First Boston to run his own company that sold and serviced printing presses.

In 1998, Herb was diagnosed with Parkinson's Disease. Since then, Herb has tirelessly worked in support of the Parkinson's community. He has been on the board of the Parkinson's Council of Philadelphia. Herb has also participated in numerous fundraising activities for the Council, including receiving the top fundraiser honor for Walk to Stamp Out Parkinson's for the past four years. Besides his work with the Parkinson's community, Herb was an assistant coach for the Moorestown freshman football team for four years, as well as a board member for the Moorestown Baseball Association. He is currently married to his wife Toni, and has three children: Amanda, Katie, and Jack.

For exhibiting qualities of altruism and service, we are proud to welcome Herbert Hopkins into the Archbishop Wood Hall of Fame.

Joseph Callaghan

The Viking Award

Since graduating from Archbishop Wood in 1982, Joseph Callaghan has gone on to become one of Wood's most successful and faithful alumni. He has found great success in his work, but has also found time to give back to the Viking Family in any way he can. Because of his faithfulness, charity, and outstanding character, Joseph Callaghan is being inducted into the 2016 Archbishop Wood Hall of Fame.

After graduating from Wood, Joseph went on to do work as a chemical engineer. He received his MBA from Carnegie Mellon, and began his career in the integrated energy business – a field in which he has worked for over 20 years. He is currently the Director of National Account Sales at Constellation, a branch of the Exelon Corporation.

Despite his success after graduation, Joseph looks back fondly on the time he spent at Archbishop Wood. While at Wood, he was a member of the Cross Country team, school newspaper, and yearbook committee. He also holds fond memories of the various teachers he remembers from his days as a Wood student. From athletics to academics, Joseph strived to be an active member of the Wood student body throughout high school. However, his involvement with the school was far from over.

For over 10 years, he has served as Chairman of the President's Advisory Board at Archbishop Wood. He was involved with a 2002 capital campaign for the school that raised over 2 million dollars. He has also donated to the school in numerous ways, whether financially, or by giving up his time to volunteer. It is not surprising that someone who holds Wood in such high esteem would send his own children there to receive a similar education. His children, Joseph ('16), Kathy ('18), and Theresa ('20) all attend the school. "We have also encouraged our family, friends, and acquaintances to consider AW in their own charitable giving," says Joseph, "and of course, to consider it as their best choice of schools for their sons and daughters.

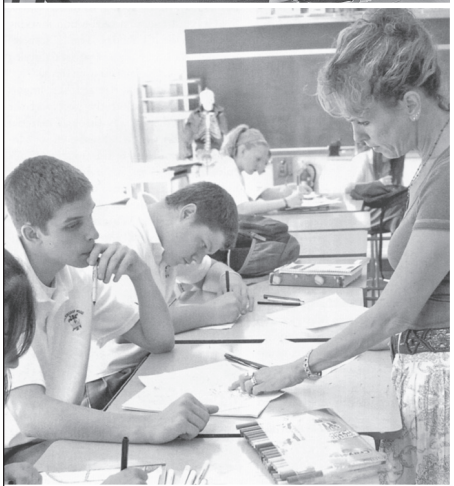

When all is said and done, Joseph remains most faithful to his wife, Cindi, his three children, and his belief in Catholic education. He supports his children in all their endeavors, both extracurricular and academic, and he knows they won't find better options at any other school.

Because of his sterling reputation of devotion and faithfulness to this school, we welcome Joseph Callaghan into the Archbishop Wood Hall of Fame.
