UNDERSTANDING FINANCIAL AID

A Simple Guide for Students and Families

Paying for college can feel confusing because financial aid comes from different places.
The easiest way to understand it is to think of it as layers of support.
Financial aid generally comes from three main sources

1

Federal Government FAFSA

2

New York State

3

Colleges & Scholarships

1 Layer 1: Federal Aid (FAFSA)

The first step for every student is completing the FAFSA.
FAFSA stands for: Free Application for Federal Student Aid.

This application is run by the U.S. Department of Education.

When a student completes the FAFSA, they may qualify for federal financial aid such as:

- Pell Grant – free money that does not need to be repaid
- Federal Student Loans – loans with lower interest rates for students
- Federal Work-Study – part-time jobs offered through colleges
- Campus-based financial aid provided by colleges

Many state programs and college scholarships use FAFSA to determine eligibility.

This is why FAFSA is always the first step in the financial aid process.

Students can complete the FAFSA online at: studentaid.gov

UNDERSTANDING FINANCIAL AID

1 Federal Government FAFSA

2 New York State

3 Colleges & Scholarships

② Layer 2: New York State Aid

After completing the FAFSA, New York State may provide additional financial aid to help cover tuition.

New York's financial aid programs are managed by the:
New York State Higher Education Services Corporation (HESC).

Two programs available to New York students are:

Tuition Assistance Program

TAP is NYS's main tuition grant. It provides free money that does not need to be repaid to eligible NYS residents attending approved colleges in New York.

To qualify for TAP, students generally must:

- Be a New York State resident
- Attend an approved college in New York
- Be enrolled full-time (usually 12 credits or more)
- Meet income eligibility requirements

Excelsior Scholarship

Excelsior Scholarship helps make tuition at SUNY & CUNY colleges tuition-free for eligible families. Excelsior only covers tuition. It does not cover housing, books, or other fees. Excelsior is considered a "last-dollar scholarship." This means it covers remaining tuition after other financial aid is applied.

Students may qualify if:

- Their household income is $125,000 or less
- They attend a SUNY or CUNY school
- They attend full-time and complete 30 credits per year

Students can learn more about these programs at HESC.NY.GOV

FAFSA

2

New York State

3

Colleges & Scholarships

3 Layer 3: Scholarships

After completing the FAFSA and applying for New York State aid, the next important step is to apply for scholarships.

Scholarships are financial awards that do not need to be repaid. They are offered by colleges, nonprofit organizations, companies, foundations, and community groups.

Unlike federal or state aid, scholarships are often based on a variety of factors, including:

- Academic achievement
- Community service
- Leadership and extracurricular involvement
- Career interests or field of study
- Cultural or community background
- Financial need

Some scholarships are large awards that cover tuition, while others may provide smaller amounts that help pay for books, transportation, or school supplies. Even smaller scholarships can make a big difference when combined.
Students should apply to as many scholarships as possible, because every award helps reduce the overall cost of college.

Important Tip
Many scholarships require:

- A personal essay
- Letters of recommendation
- Academic transcripts
