For many, this is their first experience of true wilderness camping. I enjoy watching students transform from paddling/portaging/camping "greenhorns" to seasoned veterans in a few short days. The kids are constantly presented with a new adventure filled with wonder and excitement. They are also constantly challenged, whether it be dealing with mosquitos, nasty weather, or challenging paddling and portaging. I especially enjoy the coaching/mentoring element of the trip, helping the kids to be more self-sufficient and reliant and to gain in confidence and responsibility.
