ALTERNATIVE EDUCATION RESOURCES

Disclaimer: This list is intended for informational purposes only. With the exception of Coleman High School, Midland ISD does not endorse one particular program or school over another. This list is subject to change and is by no means the only source of information to find alternative education options. This list is not an exhaustive list of programs or schools, and the leaving off of any one program or school was completely unintentional. All programs listed are accredited. Please contact the Dropout Prevention and Intervention Coordinator if you have any questions.

COLEMAN HIGH SCHOOL

Coleman High School is an academic, alternative school of choice for Midland Independent School District (MISD). MISD students who choose Coleman may apply at any time and go through a selective application and interview process prior to registration. Students choose to attend for a variety of reasons including, but not limited to, an individualized and customized learning experience, flexible scheduling options, early graduation, dual credit options or credit recovery. ONLINE AND IN-PERSON PUBLIC SCHOOLS

These options have no cost since they are considered public schools. Please check each school's website to determine when they are enrolling new students. Some may enroll year-round, while others only accept new students during certain times of the year. All Texas schools should accept credits that are transferred from another district and follow state graduation guidelines.
