CLAIRE LEHN

PORTRAIT OF A GRADUATE STORY

One day, when my partner and I were sharing our Gifted and Talented projects with each other, I projected my voice and used my listening skills.

Although I was nervous and shy, I made sure that I was nodding my head as they shared their project and I was respectful to them.

A challenge that I faced was getting distracted easily by others. A lesson I learned is that it is important to always respect others when they are speaking.
