PROJECT PROGRESS REPORT

March 2026 Update

WHAT'S NEW?

Building designs for the Franklin and Oakwood projects are now complete, and both have successfully moved through the bidding phase. The OASD Board of Education recently awarded contracts to the respective low bidders: Immel Construction for Franklin and JP Cullen for Oakwood Elementary School.

With construction teams now in place, the design focus has shifted toward furniture planning for both schools.

Recent furniture installations at Vel Phillips Middle School and Menominee Elementary School have provided valuable reference points, helping the District evaluate what works well as a district standard and where refinements can be made. This feedback will play an important role as furniture selections are finalized in the coming months for Carl Traeger, Franklin, and Oakwood Elementary Schools.

PLANNING & DESIGN UPDATE

At the New Middle School, the overall building layout has taken shape. The District recently facilitated the first round of user group meetings, bringing together staff from across OASD, including educators from Perry Tipler and South Park Middle Schools. These meetings began in January and will continue through May to gather feedback and refine spaces that support modern learning and meet the needs of students and staff.

At Oshkosh North High School, the design team toured Neenah High School and Winneconne High School to see how their facilities function and identify features that could further inform the Oshkosh North project. Insights from those visits led to productive discussions between Bray Architects, consultants, and OASD staff on topics such as rigging systems, sound booth placement, lighting booth design, and other technical elements. The decisions made over the past month have helped keep the project on schedule while ensuring the design reflects both best practices and local priorities.
