FINANCIAL AID RESOURCES

- Free Application for Federal Student Aid /FAFSA Completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA®) form allows you to be considered for federal student aid. In addition, states and colleges use FAFSA information to award their own grants, scholarships, and loans.
  Application is expected to open October 1st, and it is recommended that students apply early.
- Overview of Financial Aid Process Video
- FAFSA "What to Expect"
- CSS Profile (Register for the CSS Profile only if your college requires it)

Types of Financial Aid

- Pell Grants: Money provided by the Federal government to college students who demonstrate significant financial need. These do not need to be paid back.
- Work Study: Federally sponsored program that provides students with part-time employment (often on campus) during college. Eligibility is based on need. Students must complete the FAFSA for consideration.

SCHOLARSHIP RESOURCES

Below are resources for students to explore as they begin researching the cost of college. While it is the student's responsibility to navigate potential scholarships, the resources below will help start the process. Saguaro is also extremely lucky to have Brandee Chan in the college and career center who can also help students navigate scholarship opportunities.

- ASU Scholarship Estimator: ASU awards scholarships to incoming first year students with outstanding academic ability upon admission to ASU in the fall semester. This scholarship estimator can help determine the amount of scholarship money that students may be eligible to receive.
- Net Price calculator: Net price calculators are available on a college's or university's website and allow prospective students to enter information about themselves to find out what students like them paid to attend the institution in the previous year, after taking grants and scholarship aid into account.
- CSS Profile: (College Scholarship Service Profile):The form, administered and maintained by the College Board, opens the door to nonfederal scholarships and other kinds of institutional aid that can make a big difference when it comes time to pay for college. The CSS Profile offers opportunities for families to describe any unique or extenuating circumstances affecting their ability to pay. Additional details about the CCS profile can be found HERE
- AZ529: The Arizona Family College Savings Plan is a state-sponsored 529 plan designed to provide a parent, grandparent or future student an opportunity to save for educational expenses in a tax-deferred manner. You can open an account today for $25 or less. For more information click HERE

Glossary of College Terms

ACT
A standardized college admission test. It features four main sections: English, math, reading and science — and an optional essay section. For more information click HERE

Admission Tests
Also known as college entrance exams, these are tests designed to measure students' skills and help colleges evaluate how ready students are for college-level work. The ACT and the College Board's SAT are two common standardized admission tests used in the United States. Please review college admission requirements to determine if SAT or ACT scores are required for admission.

Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery/ASVAB:
A multiple-choice test that helps students identify which Army career (Military Occupational Specialties) would be best suited for their skill set. For more information click HERE

Common Application
A standard application form accepted by colleges that are members of the Common Application association designed to streamline the application process for students. Students can fill out this application once and submit it to one or several of the nearly 700 colleges that accept it. For more information click HERE

Glossary of College Terms

Deferred Admission
Permission from a college that has accepted you to postpone enrolling in the college. The postponement is usually for up to one year.

Early Action (EA)
An option to submit your applications before the regular deadlines. When you apply early action, you get admission decisions from colleges earlier than usual. Early action plans are not binding, which means that you do not have to enroll in a college if you are accepted early action. Some colleges have an early action option called EA II, which has a later application deadline than their regular EA plan. Learn more about applying early.

Early Decision (ED)
An option to submit an application to your first-choice college before the regular deadline. When you apply early decision, you get an admission decision earlier than usual. Early decision plans are binding. You agree to enroll in the college immediately if you are admitted and offered a financial aid package that meets your needs. Some colleges have an early decision option called ED II, which has a later application deadline than their regular ED plan. Learn more about applying early.

Federal Student Aid/FASFA
The Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) is the form you fill out to get any financial aid from the federal government to help pay for college. Information on how to fill out the FASFA can be found HERE.

Priority Date or Deadline

The date by which your application — whether it's for college admission, student housing or financial aid must be received to be given the strongest consideration.

Rolling Admission

An admission policy of considering each application as soon as all required information (such as high school records and test scores) has been received, rather than setting an application deadline and reviewing applications in a batch. Colleges that use a rolling admission policy usually notify applicants of admission decisions quickly.

Transcript

The official record of your course work at a school or college. Your high school transcript is required for college admission and for some financial aid packages.

SAT

The College Board's standardized college admission test. It features two main sections: math and reading and writing (combined), which can include a written essay. For more information click HERE
