Students from the Career and Technical Education program at North, South, and Davies high schools will be honored at the National Technical Honor Society Induction Ceremony on Thursday.

Students were nominated for their skill development and academic achievement in their CTE courses and involvement in a Career and Technical Student Organization related to their CTE pathway, such as health sciences, business, marketing, or construction. To qualify for induction, students must maintain a 3.5 GPA in CTE courses, 3.0 GPA overall, complete two credits in a CTE pathway, and be active members in a Career and Technical Student Organization.

The ceremony will feature a social gathering from 5:30-6 p.m., opening remarks from FPS Director of Career and Technical Education Dr. Denis Jonas, and a presentation of certificates of membership to the students. Each student has written about a teacher that is important to them and will recognize that teacher at the ceremony.
