OTHS Celebrates the Military Child

Every April, schools across the nation recognize the Month of the Military Child to honor the strength, resilience, and contributions of students who have parents or caregivers serving in the military. Military children may have a parent on active duty, in the National Guard or Reserves, or who is a veteran.

Many experience frequent moves, parental deployments, and changes that require adaptability and resilience. OTHS showed their support for military connected children through wearing purple on April 15th as part of National Purple Up Day to honor all branches of the US military. Military children may not wear a uniform - but they serve, too.
