

Ms. Lori Turner is a dedicated visual arts educator with Albuquerque Public Schools, bringing more than a decade of professional arts experience to her classroom. She holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts with a concentration in Illustration, as well as a Master's in Art Education with K-12 licensure from the University of New Mexico. Prior to entering education, Ms. Turner owned and operated a successful photography business for twelve years, an experience that continues to inform her instructional approach.

Originally from Michigan, Ms. Turner relocated to Albuquerque with her family in 2013 to pursue graduate studies at UNM. She joined Albuquerque Public Schools as a high school teacher in 2016 and currently serves as a virtual teacher at Siembra Leadership High School, while also teaching in the evening program. Her instructional areas include photography and visual arts, and she is committed to providing students with rigorous, engaging, and meaningful learning experiences across both virtual and in-person settings.

Ms. Turner believes that art education offers students a powerful means of discovering their individual voices. She views teaching as an opportunity to inspire growth, spark curiosity, and encourage students to explore new perspectives through creative expression. She is dedicated to fostering a classroom environment where every student feels supported in developing their artistic skills and confidence.

Outside the classroom, Ms. Turner maintains an active studio practice as a working artist, creating distinctive mixed-media works that combine photography with encaustic techniques to merge texture and imagery. In her personal time, she enjoys traveling, reading, and practicing yoga.
