OUR MISSION

The New Trier Booster Club is a parent-run volunteer organization that raises funds to support New Trier athletics, manages all intramural sports, and promotes team and school spirit. Last year, we raised over $228,000, proudly funding New Trier coaches' equipment requests in addition to our intramural sports programs. The majority of funding comes from annual membership dues, Community Partners, Brick, Sign and Magnet sales and our annual Booster Benefit and Auction. Every purchase and donation directly supports our athletes by funding the athletic program wish list and providing intramural opportunities for all New Trier students.

ACADEMIC ASSISTANCE CENTER

Room A405

The Academic Assistance Center, or A.A.C., is a place where all Northfield students can come before, during or after school to receive academic support in the areas of math, biology, physics, geoscience, Spanish, writing and reading. The AAC is staffed by qualified instructors, most of whom are retired teachers.

We are a center where students can drop in throughout the day to:

- get support from subject-area experts on homework assignments
- obtain clarification of concepts
- get assistance in preparing for assessments
- receive constructive feedback on written assignments
- gain study tips and suggestions
- organize their backpacks using our “Organization Station”
- run high-energy experiments using our Cosmic Ray Detector

Students can come to the center, located in A405, before school, during a study hall, lunch or after school. We have tutors available on a first come, first served basis. Students must have an ID to enter. Teachers have access to the AAC visitor information.

Frequently Asked Questions...and Answers

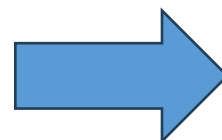

Does a student have to be doing poorly in a class to go to the AAC?

Absolutely not! The AAC is where all students can ask questions, get help with homework, and/or get clarification on concepts.

Where do I find the current schedule? Our schedule is posted on Canvas, the New Trier website (under “academic resources”) and on various walls and bulletin boards throughout the Northfield campus.

Do students have to make an appointment to get help in the AAC?

Sometimes. Instructors are available from 7:15AM-3:30PM (times vary depending on the subject and instructor), and they are eager to assist students. Students do not need to make an appointment. However, there are times that we might be very busy, particularly on the day of a test or the day that a major paper is due. If students wait until the last minute, we might not be able to spend as much time as we would like with them. To make sure they get the assistance they need, it's best to try to plan and make an appointment. The tutors' contact information is on the NT website as well as on Canvas.

When can students go to the AAC?

Students can come to the AAC before school, during study hall, during lunch, or after school. Students wanting to use this resource during study hall need to come up to the AAC immediately and arrive before the bell rings. Alternatively, if they prefer to go to study hall and then come up to the AAC, they must get a green "out of room" permit signed by their teacher in advance. They must present this permit to their study hall supervisor to gain permission to visit the AAC.

If students go to the AAC during lunch, when/where do they eat?

We prefer that students come to the AAC before or after they eat lunch.

Will the teachers know that students have gotten help in the AAC?

Yes. Teachers can access the data at any point via PowerSchool.

The Northfield Testing Make-Up Center — A405

The AAC also houses the Test Make-up Center, which is open from 7am - 4pm daily (except Fridays). After school, students must arrive by 3:15. Additionally, students must have an ID to make up a test. Cell phones and wearable technology will be placed in marked holders during the exam.
