Ashwaubenon School District Announces Dr. Kane Mach as New High School Principal

ASHWAUBENON, WI — The Ashwaubenon School District is proud to announce the appointment of Dr. Kane Mach as the new Principal of Ashwaubenon High School, effective July 1. As an award-winning administrator and educator, Dr. Mach brings a wealth of experience that has shaped a leadership style that is grounded in practical experience and driven by innovation.

Dr. Mach currently serves as an Associate Principal at Green Bay East High School. His career path includes roles as a high school and elementary teacher, remedial specialist, head coach, athletic/activities director and associate principal at multiple levels. In addition to his school-based roles, Dr. Mach has taught at the university level, preparing future educators and administrators while actively publishing research and exploring emerging best practices.

"I am thrilled to welcome Dr. Mach to the Ashwaubenon School District and the high school team," said Dr. Andrew Bake, Superintendent. "Kane's high energy and innovative spirit will serve our students, staff, and families well. He is joining a strong AHS team, and I am excited for the next chapter of Ashwaubenon High School's story of pride, tradition, and excellence."

Dr. Mach, a graduate of Antigo High School and the University of Wisconsin–Stevens Point, holds two national board licenses, a master's degree in STEM Education, and a PhD in Educational Psychology from Oklahoma State University. His research and professional expertise center on adolescent development, instructional strategies, school discipline, and trauma-responsive educational practices. Well-established in the field, he has trained more than 1,000 educators and has experience securing grant funding to support innovative school-based programs.

"I am beyond excited to serve as the next proud head principal and biggest advocate of Ashwaubenon High School!" said Dr. Mach. "Becoming a high school principal has been my professional dream since I began my administrative career seven years ago. During interviews I had the pleasure of meeting students, staff, and community members who showcased the remarkable culture, commitment to excellence, and outstanding opportunities that define AHS. It is a community with heart, drive, and limitless potential, something you should all be very proud of! I am confident that, together, we can take AHS to even greater heights! I am energized, truly honored, and I cannot wait to get started! #FireUpJags! "

In his free time Kane enjoys volunteering in the community, staying active outdoors, and spending time with family and friends. He lives in Green Bay with his wife, Mary, and their two daughters, Brooklyn (5) and Thea (3). The Mach family also serves as foster parents, welcoming many children into their home.
