

Mrs. Martellino's Author Interviews

If you are looking for new books to add to your home library or to give as gifts (books are the only gift you can open again and again), then checkout these picks.

To learn more about each book, be sure to view my interviews with the authors by scanning the QR code below. These interviews are great for parents to learn the backstories to each book and more about the author's writing process. You can then share tidbits you learn from the videos with your child during a read aloud time.

I selected one picture book biography, two fiction picture books, and three narrative nonfiction picture books. All are suitable for family read alouds to spark curiosity, creativity, and the imagination. These are some of my favorite books published in the last few years.

Mrs. Martellino's Author Interviews

If you are looking for new books to add to your home library or to give as gifts (books are the only gift you can open again and again), then checkout these picks.

To learn more about each book, be sure to view my interviews with the authors by scanning the QR code below. These interviews are great for parents to learn the backstories to each book and more about the author's writing process. You can then share tidbits you learn from the videos with your child during a read aloud time.

I selected one picture book biography, one chapter book, and four fiction picture books...all are suitable for family read alouds. These are some of my favorite books published in the last few years.

