The purpose of this essay is to predict what the world will be like in the year two thousand and twenty six.

The first thing I would like to predict is transportation. I believe that we will have more electric power cars, electric powered sky liners and monerals.

The second thing I would like to predict is education. The teachers will use very hard discipline. The slow learning children will have special machines or "robots" that teach them.

The third thing I would like to predict is energy. More things will be powered by solar energy, and less by electric.

The fourth is government and laws. The federal government will be in complete control.

The fifth is Religion. Communism will be trying to take over the United States.

The Lutheran and Catholic religions will be a lot closer to each other than they are now.

The sixth category is sports and recreation. More women will be involved in sports. Women will take over most of the sports and most of the men will drop out.

The seventh is housing. They will develop new housing projects, and more people will live in apartment houses.

I believe that Michigan City will become less popular in fishing because Lake Michigan will be so polluted. It will get as bad as Gary. Then a group of nice, caring people will clean it up.

In conclusion, the above statements are what I predict for the year two thousand and twenty six.
