This essay will contain my predictions on what I think the world will be like in the year 2026. First, I think that for transportation we will have more compact electric cars and there will be more public transportation. Second, I think that education will use more computers and televisions. Third, I predict that almost all heating will be solar energy. Fourth, I think there will still be a president and all the other parts of government such as Congress, Senate and the House of Representatives.

Fifth, I don't think that religion will change very much, if at all. Sixth, I think that the sports that are around now like baseball, football and basketball will be gone and new sports, much more violent, will replace them. Seventh I don't think that many people will own their own home and almost everyone will live in big apartment complexes as tall or taller than the largest building in the world, the Sears Tower in Chicago which is approximately 1,000 ft tall.

Eighth, I think that the Michigan City community will have tripled in population and will look like Chicago or New York City looks today. In conclusion, I don't think that there will not be much change in religion but almost every other category will have quite a lot of change.
