

Get Into Nature

This week our focus is: Daisies

The daisies we see commonly are called Oxeye daisies and they usually start to flower around mid-May time. They are not the only plant that starts to flower at this time you may be able to spot bluebells as well.

It is around this time as well, that birds such as blue tits and blackbirds start to feed their young. So you may be able to see them flying around.

Challenge:

This week on your walks we would like you to count how many daisies you can spot. Pictures of them would be brilliant!

Please send your entries, along with your name and Primary School, to Rotheram.j@bil.svmat.uk by 29th May 2026.
