SAT Preparation Workshop

What is SAT Preparation Workshop?

This asynchronous course will provide students with an opportunity to explore the tools available on the College Board Student Portal, the Bluebook digital testing app and the free digital SAT prep courses available through Khan Academy.

This UCS SAT Preparation Workshop has been designed to be taken in a variety of ways that suit the unique needs of each individual student and their family.

Weekly options will include:

- Online TEAMS meetings
 - There will be two Teams meetings a week, one on Tuesday and one on Wednesday, for 45 minutes each that students may choose to attend or choose to watch a recording of the meeting or choose to work through the posted material from the meeting asynchronously.
 - There will be two asynchronous sessions, one math and one English, that will be recorded and posted on Thursdays.
- The course will be taught by two experienced UCS teachers, one certified in English, the other certified in math, and both English and math will be covered each week.
- Two in-person days offered within the summer schedule. While that material will not be recorded, it will be posted in Schoology for asynchronous work. One of days will focus on math, the other day will focus on English.
- Students will continue to have access to the Schoology “course” for the entire school year
