School Week 36

Can you believe we are into our last months of school? Kids have a lot to reflect on: new principal, new teachers, having to evacuate and move to the Middle School--TWICE. For some of us, it was a little PTSD but we all survived and came out stronger and are so happy to be back in Friend Street where we don't have to walk up 3 flights of stairs and we get to go to Pizza Factory and Vermette's.

And Patty and Karen are back in the church teaching their culinary magic to our students. So far, Crab Rangoon and Quesadilla have been on the menu. Nice way to end the week!

This week under the direction of ELA Teacher Lindsay MacNeil Chilorian, students have been interviewing members of the community to learn how a community functions. Rae Walsh is interviewing Annmary Connor the Executive Director of the Amesbury Merrimac Housing Authority as it applies to affordability and access in Amesbury. She learned a great deal about how few affordable places there are in our area.

Caden Picard with Courtney Hutchinson of Wellness Department and Ellie Torres with Kelly Mckora formerly with PACT. So impressed with how well-researched and professional they were. Future podcasters in our midst perhaps?

CONGRATULATIONS to Katherine & Jon!
 They were both selected to be recipients of the Excellence in Education Awards. They are nominated by a colleague and then voted on by their peers. They will be honored on Monday, May 18th at Flatbreads. They are being told of their honor by Mrs. McAndrews, Scenes from the Sweetheart Dance. Each year AIHS puts on the Sweetheart Dance. It is the major fundraiser for our school so kids can get those little "extras" that the regular school budget can't provide, like field trips.

Usually staff plans this event but since we now have a student council, Jon Kezer decided to let students plan it. The theme was "Enchanted Hawaiian Evening." Students prepped food, arranged the decorations, set tables, sold raffle tickets, made sure snacks were plentiful, hung backdrops and poured coffee. Almost all of the students participated. They do receive community service, but they were having so much fun they might have done it without it. Katherine even provided limo service if they didn't have a ride.

Hudson & Anthony wait to serve coffee

Violet, Tamia, Layla & Katrina ready to sell tickets and hand out leis to the guests.

Not sure what Adriana is doing but I think kitchen duty is not her "thing"

Lia, Evan, Dylan, Kristin and Bethany prep really healthy snacks. When the nurse leader works at your school, you have to step up your game. Cucumbers, strawberries, pretzel and veggie snacks. Very healthy

Hayden & Bret put the finishing touches on the decorations, They make great backdrops for photos.

Jamie, all decked out in his Hawaiian shirt Cole and Jayda waiting for arrivals

Vinny, Rae and last year's graduate, Bryn are ready for a meet and greet!! Sell those tickets girls.
