Easy for math

A time when I used effective communicator skills is when in baseball my team is losing. We need to use our effective communicator skills and have a little more positivity. We had to do that and talk more. Like when you had to call a fly ball, call "cut!" if you were the cutoff man, and cheer each other on. Also we usually won when we were loud, energetic, and really positive. Though if we did lose at least we had fun! The lesson here is that team spirit is a big part of baseball!
