Chairperson Nye thanked Mr. Barber for his presentation. Principal Dessert provided an overview of enrollment projections for the 2027-2027 school year at this time. For Kindergarten they anticipate thirty-five students, so that grade level will likely be two sections. The rising third grade will also remain two sections and rising fourth grade has lost multiple students this year but they are aware of a couple move-ins. Ms. Smith said the last five to ten years, the enrollment has decreased. Superintendent Nelson agreed and the District's NESDEC projections which uses census data, birth rate statistics and more support this downward trend as well. Chairperson Nye also added it is a statewide issue.

Superintendent Nelson added that all currently active employees at Sippican School will have the option to remain. For the current school year, he reminded the school committee that a reading teacher is covering a fifth grade teaching position and there is a retirement at sixth grade. They do not anticipate filling the fifth grade position and the teacher will move back to reading. The district will see movement across some grade levels and administration will follow the current collective bargaining agreement with the Marion Teachers Association. He added that if the circuit breaker funds received did not come in higher as Mr. Barber presented, the budget would have seen a more significant increase, just for the cost of doing business.

There were no public comments.

As we move through the month of March, Sippican Elementary continues to shine with learning, leadership, and a strong sense of community. After an extended February break due to the snowstorm, it has been wonderful welcoming everyone back and seeing the energy and enthusiasm throughout the building. This month, our students and staff are preparing for upcoming MCAS assessments, while also looking forward to the excitement of our Glow Run on March 10th, which is always a fun way to bring our school community together. Thank you to our dedicated staff, supportive families, and wonderful community partners who help make Sippican such a special place. Together, we continue to create a school environment rooted in respect, responsibility, and kindness.

- Sippican celebrated 100 days of school.
- The Sippican chorus choir and band students showcased their talents at the winter concert, delivering another outstanding performance. Mrs. Richard and Mrs. Moore consistently demonstrated their exceptional abilities, exceeding expectations once again.
- Our January 2026 All-School Meeting — celebrating leadership, learning, and the Sippican 3 to Be. Character Counts recognitions honored students showing empathy, inclusion, and kindness. This reflects our gathering to boost enthusiasm, unity, and pride across the school — just like a pep rally where students come together with excitement and support for one another. These assemblies continue to build school pride, celebrate student accomplishments, and foster leadership — and they remain a highlight that students eagerly anticipate each month.
- Teaching & Learning Update: Anchored in Data, Sailing Forward with Purpose - At Sippican Elementary, we are Anchored with Purpose and Sailing with Heart as we review our middle-of-the-year benchmark data in literacy and math. Our teachers are thoughtfully analyzing student growth to celebrate progress, identify next steps, and ensure every child continues to move forward. Using this data, we are refining instructional plans and adjusting our FLEX blocks — dedicated time in our schedule where we personalize learning. During FLEX, students may receive targeted skill support, practice to build stamina and confidence, or enrichment opportunities to extend their learning. This work reflects our commitment to the Sippican 3 to Be — Respectful, Responsible, and Kind — Every Day, Every Way.
 - We are responsible for using data to guide instruction.
 - We are respectful of each child's unique learning path.
 - We are kind in ensuring students receive the support or challenge they need to thrive.
 - By focusing intentionally on literacy and math, we are ensuring that every student has strong foundational skills and the opportunity to grow with confidence.
 - Together, we remain anchored in what matters most — student success.
- Norman & Officer Tracy - Norman continues to be a bright spot in our building each day — greeting students with a wag, visiting classrooms, and helping support emotional regulation and calm spaces throughout the school. Alongside Officer Tracy, he brings comfort, connection, and a sense of joy to our Sippican community. Our Norman Awards proudly recognize students who model the Sippican 3 to Be — Respectful, Responsible, and Kind — Every Day, Every Way. These awards celebrate students who go above and beyond to demonstrate positive choices, leadership, and heart.
- Feinstein Jr. Scholar Update - We are proud to share that Sippican Elementary has been awarded $2,700 from the Feinstein Foundation in support of our student service projects! These funds will directly support our Kindness Tree initiatives and our school food pantry, helping us extend generosity and care to families in our community. This recognition reflects our students' commitment to service and their dedication to living the Sippican 3 to Be — Respectful, Responsible, and Kind — Every Day, Every Way. We are grateful for this partnership and proud of the meaningful difference our students continue to make.
- Operations and Facilities Update - With the recent snowstorms and extended cold weather, our custodial team has worked tirelessly to ensure that Sippican remains safe and welcoming for students and staff. Early mornings, snow removal, salting, and continuous monitoring of walkways have helped maintain clear and safe pathways around the building. We are incredibly grateful for their dedication and attention to detail during challenging winter conditions. Their efforts ensure that our school community can arrive and learn safely — no matter the weather.

- Our share table launched in January! We're proud to announce that beginning January 2026, our school will be offering a Share Table and Cooler during meals. This space allows students to place unopened, uneaten food items so that their peers may enjoy them.
 - The Share Table helps:
 - Reduce food waste
 - Support students experiencing food insecurity
 - Provide additional access to fresh, healthy options each day
 - Please encourage your child to only share unopened, safe-to-eat items so we can keep everyone healthy and safe. Together, we are making our school meals more sustainable, inclusive, and supportive of all students.

Budget Subcommittee
16 Spring Street

Superintendent's Conference Room

MEMBERS PRESENT: April Nye (remote), Chairperson and Nichole Nye McGaffey (in-person).

MEMBERS ABSENT: None

OTHERS PRESENT: Michael S. Nelson, Superintendent of Schools, Lynn Dessert, Principal and Melissa Wilcox, Recording Secretary (all in-person).

I. Meeting to Order

The meeting was called to order at 11:05 a.m. by Chairperson Nye.

II. General

a. FY2027 Budget Discussion

Superintendent Nelson welcomed the members and shared that he and Mr. Barber attended the Marion Finance Committee meeting last week to present the draft FY2027 Sippican and ORR budgets. He reiterated to the Finance Committee members that both are preliminary and neither has been approved by the School Committee. He thanked Chairperson Nye for attending that meeting as well. The Finance Committee asked many meaningful questions regarding specifics of the budget and how resources effect students.

Next, Superintendent Nelson shared the budget drivers below as discussed with the Finance Committee an shared with the Town Administrator:

Transportation – Special Education Services (Mandated):

- Collaborative Transportation: $18,988
- Day Program Transportation: $41,055
- Student Ridership Support Monitors: $8,000

Transportation – Regular Education (Level Service):

- Regular Day Transportation: $16,550

Student Support Services (Mandated):

- Extended Year Services (ESY): $5,500
- Contracted Student Services: $10,000
- Speech Therapy Services: $4,000

Tuition Program (Mandated):

- Day School Placements: $158,562
- Residential Placements: $109,635

Custodial and Utilities (Contractual):

- Evening Custodial Services: $23,390
- Utility-Based Operational Cost: $14,650

Technology Operations (Needs-Based):

- Instructional and Operational Software: $2,000
- Educational Equipment: $5,000

These adjustments reflect unavoidable cost increases required to maintain compliance with student service mandates, meet contractual obligations, deliver necessary instructional supports, and sustain building operations and technology infrastructure.

Separately, the Budget Subcommittee has identified additional budgetary requests that extend beyond a level service budget based on student needs (these requests are NOT included in the UPDATED DRAFT Preliminary Fiscal Year 2027 Budget at this time). These requests, ranked in order of priority, are as follows:

Math Interventionist (1.0 FTE):

- To deliver targeted intervention and strengthen tiered instruction for students not meeting grade-level expectations.
- Estimated Cost: $70,404

Special Education Team Chairperson Stipend:

- To strengthen the coordination of student services, streamline compliance processes, and ensure timely support for students with specialized needs.
- Estimated Cost: $5,000

Then, Principal Dessert reviewed enrollment projections which anticipates Kindergarten, grade 3 and grade 4 will have two sections. Superintendent Nelson explained that although this change will take place, all current employees will be able to stay if they so choose through a retirement and moving a reading teacher back from 5th grade which was a one-year coverage in FY26. Principal Dessert did hold a voluntary staff meeting last week to be transparent with staff.

The Finance Committee did discuss the math interventionist position and supported it so the Budget Subcommittee will need to make a recommendation of including it in the FY2027 proposed budget or not, ahead of the administration meeting with the Select Board next week. Principal Dessert agreed that Sippican's math data is last compared to Mattapoissett and Rochester as reported to the Finance Committee.

School Committee Feedback:

Ms. Nye explained that it is technically a new position, but the budget is decreasing two FTEs so it would be a decrease of one FTE instead.

Motion to support the addition of the Math Interventionist position in the proposed draft FY2027 budget for the Marion School Committee Public Budget Hearing being held tomorrow by Nichole Nye McGaffey

Seconded by April Nye

Motion Carries 2-0

Roll Call: Nye (yes), Nye McGaffey (yes)

III. Adjournment

Re: Materials Being Withdrawn from the Sippican School Library

Lynn,

Please find attached a list of materials being withdrawn from the library's collection. Most titles being removed were in advanced stages of disrepair or were superseded by more current titles. This year I focused on evaluating the biographies on our shelves, along with the titles relating to science and geography. Many of the biographies that were weeded this year were titles that supported past curriculum and were no longer of interest to current readers.

Additionally, I completed the movement of our poetry books to a section entirely their own this fall. They had previously been housed in the nonfiction at 811.54, which was confusing for students. I also created a section specifically for folktales and fairy tales. First grade students focus on folktales for a lengthy unit and often ask me for more. Now, students know where they are and can look for new tales independently!

These changes have had a positive impact on our library space and I'm already planning out what projects I will address in the 2026-27 school year.

Please note the following statistics:

- 18,169 - Number of items in our library collection
- 12,204 - Number of items checked out this school year (with three more weeks to go!)
- 2004 - Average year of publication for our collection
- 517 - Number of titles being weeded this year
- 460 - Number of titles added to our collection this school year
- 159 - Number of times that The Encyclopedia of the Cat by Dr. Bruce Fogle (1997) was checked out before being removed for disrepair
- 127 - Number of times that Standing Small: A Celebration of 30 years of LEGO was checked out before falling apart completely
- 65 - Number of times that our Deluxe CD Players were checked out this year (Yes, you read that correctly - CD players. Students still love listening to audio books this way!)

If you have any questions or would like further clarification, please let me know. It is a pleasure to teach at Sippican School!

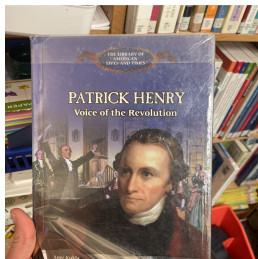

Sincerely,
Jessica C. Barrett

Title and Author of Book:	Trombone Shorty by Troy Andrews
Professional Reviews Available: *If no professional reviews are available, the rubric below may not be applicable.	Reviews available and posted here ▾ N/A ▾ N/A ▾ From School Library Journal Gr 1–4—"Where y'at?" Troy Andrews, aka Trombone Shorty, opens his book with this phrase, letting readers know that it's New Orleans parlance for hello. In this stunning picture book autobiography, multi-instrumentalist and vocalist Andrews shares the story of his early years growing up in the Tremé neighborhood of New Orleans. Andrews desperately wished to emulate the musicians in his family and those he saw performing all over his city, so he and his friends made their own instruments out of found materials, played in the streets, and marched with bands. When one day he found a battered, discarded trombone bigger than he was, Andrews finally had a real instrument to play, and he practiced day and night, acquiring the nickname Trombone Shorty from his older brother. The moment Bo Diddley pulled Andrews on stage to play with him during the New Orleans jazz festival was a turning point, and he hasn't stopped performing since. Collier's beautiful watercolor, pen-and-ink, and collage artwork picks up the rhythm and pace of Andrew's storytelling, creating an accompaniment full of motion and color. Each spread offers a visual panoply of texture, perspective, and angles, highlighting the people and the instruments. Andrews's career is still on the rise, his music gaining an ever wider audience, and this title will be an inspiration to many. VERDICT Coupled with a selection of Trombone Shorty's music, this work will make for fun and thoughtful story sharing. A must-have.—Jody Kopple, Shady Hill School, Cambridge, MA

Title and Author of Book:	5 O'Clock Band by Troy Andrews
Professional Reviews Available: *If no professional reviews are available, the rubric below may not be applicable.	Reviews available and posted here ▾ N/A ▾ N/A ▾ Booklist (05/01/2018): Grades 1-4 Starred Review Fans of Andrews' Trombone Shorty (2015) will cheer over Shorty's illuminating return. Chronologically more of a twin than a sequel, this continuation of Andrews' autobiography revels in an appreciation of the culture and influences that shaped this accomplished musician's art. We meet young Shorty at a point when he is making his mark in New Orleans with his fellow band members, playing around Tremé and emulating veteran musicians in Jackson Square. One day, Shorty is so engrossed in his trombone practice that he forgets to meet his band, and they leave without him. Shorty heads to the French Quarter on his own, where he's distracted from his disappointment by the scent of gumbo and jambalaya, the sonorous wail of a tuba, and calls of where y'at? from various locals. These intentional divergences allow Andrews and Collier to pay tribute to the wisdom and experience of New Orleans' residents (Tuba Tremé, Creole chef Queen Lola, and Big Chief of the Comanche Mardi Gras Indians), as Shorty asks for advice on being a good bandleader. Deeply textured watercolor collages in rich hues and dynamic shapes preserve history and expressively capture Shorty's reverence for his local heroes. Shorty learns about the importance of dedication, tradition, and love, all of which are further explicated in the author's and illustrator's notes.(Reprinted with permission of Booklist, copyright 2018, American Library Association.)

Title and Author of Book:	Just a Lucky So and So: The Story of Louis Armstrong by Lesa Cline-Ransome
Professional Reviews Available: *If no professional reviews are available, the rubric below may not be applicable.	Reviews available and posted here ▾ N/A ▾ N/A ▾ Booklist (04/01/2016): Grades 1-4 It may well be that Louis Armstrong was just a lucky so and so, as the title of this biography proclaims, but between the covers of this book is the tale of a life of optimism, persistence, and resourcefulness. Little Louis Armstrong was born in the poor part of New Orleans and got his start listening to the music of his neighborhood brass bands, honky-tonk combos, and church songs. Louis first started tooting his tin horn at age seven while working with Morris, a scrap collector who bought the boy his first horn and encouraged him to play. Louis' optimism never wavered, even in the face of heartbreaking setbacks, and his broad smile earned him the nickname, Satchel mouth Satchmo, for short. The narrative is dense with biographical details about his rise to fame and quotes from Satchmo himself. Bold watercolor illustrations infused with light and movement add the perfect complement to this sweet tale of one of America's musical treasures. Can be paired with Troy Andrews' Trombone Shorty (2015). (Reprinted with permission of Booklist, copyright 2016, American Library Association.)

Title and Author of Book:	Remarkable Farkle McBride by John Lithgow
Professional Reviews Available: *If no professional reviews are available, the rubric below may not be applicable.	Reviews available and posted here ▾ N/A ▾ N/A ▾ From School Library Journal Kindergarten-Grade 2-At the age of three, Farkle McBride has mastered the violin, at five the flute, two years later the trombone, and by nine the entire percussion section. Unfortunately, the musical prodigy quickly tires of each new accomplishment and grows annoyed by the sounds he produces. It is only when the conductor is too ill to lead the orchestra and the child is asked to substitute that he realizes his true calling. "Poor Farkle at ten, howsoever renowned,/Reached the end of his/musical tether./But then he discovered his/favorite sound:/Musicians all playing together." The boy takes his final bow on an impressive double-gatefold spread with the orchestra behind him and his audience obviously well pleased. From the musical mobile dangling above his bassinet on the opening pages to the congratulatory bouquet at the end, it is clear that Farkle is a born musician; however, it is his sheer capriciousness that provides this contemporary tall tale with its zany humor. Payne's realistic mixed-media illustrations contain whimsical details and lots of musical innuendoes; the text appears on pages lightly imprinted with musical notation. The grotesquely enlarged heads of many characters and the dire fates suffered by several instruments are disconcerting at first but deliver a visual punch. The jaunty rhyme scheme with lots of onomatopoeia will have listeners "deedle-eeing" and "tootle-ee tooing" right along. Pair this wry and witty read-aloud with Lloyd Moss's Zin! Zin! Zin!: A Violin (S & S, 1995). Carol Ann Wilson, Westfield Memorial Library, NJ

With a rhythmic text that dances and sings, Mang chronicles Aaron Copland's quest to portray the diversity of America. She notes that whether the music sounded like the "humming" jazz of Harlem, the "soft hills of Pennsylvania," or parties "from California down to Mexico," people heard his music and thought, "This sounds like us!" Her vibrant gouache illustrations tell a similar story, such as a scene showing Copland's hands playing on black and white piano keys that merge into a cityscape filled with high-rises. The story highlights his perseverance, especially his attempts to capture the unique American musical soundscape. Another scene shows Copland in the company of his partner, reading an encouraging note from his mentor and teacher, Nadia, while a newspaper questions whether his work is "music or noise." A wealth of back matter enriches the main story, with extensive biographical details about Copland's life and work, listening and reading suggestions, an author's note on the personal impact of Copland, and a brief bibliography of sources. This engaging and thoughtful introduction to an essential American artist belongs in all public and school libraries. COPYRIGHT(2025) Booklist, ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.

Title and Author of Book:	Write On, Irving Berlin! By Leslie Kimmelman

Berlin's story begins as the five-year-old arrives in the U.S. in 1893 along with his family, fleeing the Russian pogroms. Left fatherless at 13, he makes money by singing and making up tunes, eventually writing the smash hit, Alexander's Ragtime Band. Kimmelman does a fine job of touching on both Berlin's professional and personal lives and doesn't shy away from mentioning that not everyone liked the fact that a Jewish immigrant was writing America's most beloved songs, like White Christmas. Her text is long in spots, but readers will come away with a sense of the man and what his music meant to America, especially in times of war. Gardner's artwork, which captures Berlin's exuberance, is displayed nicely on oversize pages. The mostly realistic style is softened on some spreads that are executed in chalks, giving the art the gauzy feel of memory. A fine mix of music and the immigrant experience.(Reprinted with permission of Booklist, copyright 2018, American Library Association.)

Professional Reviews Available: *If no professional reviews are available, the rubric below may not be applicable.	Reviews available and posted here ▾ N/A ▾ N/A ▾ From School Library Journal Kindergarten-Grade 5—Benjamin Britten's "Young Person's Guide to the Orchestra" has been the gold standard for introducing children to instruments since 1946. The concept has been embraced (some may say enhanced) by none other than Lemony Snicket, whose picture-book overview offers the additional layer of a murder mystery. The CD presentation features music by Nathaniel Stookey, performed by the San Francisco Symphony. The story is well paced, employing wordplay, humor, and mild suspense to build a slow crescendo that originates with the delicate strings and climaxes with percussion. The bombastic Inspector, read by Snicket on the CD, sports pinstripes, a bowler hat, and a handlebar mustache in the book. As he interrogates each section of the orchestra, the instruments describe their whereabouts on the night of the crime in characteristic voices, telling something about their actual roles while offering imagery for the illustrator. Thus, "'We were performing a waltz,' said the Violins. 'We played graceful melodies so the ladies and gentlemen could spin around and around and around until they felt dizzy and somewhat nauseous.'" Ellis's watercolors combine caricatures of the action with silhouettes of the instruments. Evidence leads to the conductor, since "wherever there's a conductor, you're sure to find a dead composer!" Musings on justice versus art point to certain acquittal. Due to the length of the musical portions, it is unlikely that children will listen and read simultaneously. It is quite likely, however, that both formats will provide entertainment and enlightenment, in whatever order they are encountered.—Wendy Lukehart, Washington DC Public Library

Title and Author of Book:	88 Instruments by Chris Barton
Professional Reviews Available: *If no professional reviews are available, the rubric below may not be applicable.	Reviews available and posted here ▾ N/A ▾ N/A ▾ From School Library Journal PreS-Gr 2—A bespectacled boy is given the opportunity to learn an instrument, but when his parents bring him to a music shop, he has trouble choosing among his 88 options. What ensues is a playful exploration of sound and the vast (and cacophonous) world of musical instruments. The boy's overwhelmed parents follow him as he tries out the triangle, trombone, tuba, harp, and drums and everything else in between. Barton's use of superlatives results in a hilarious onomatopoeic romp through the shop: "Do I pick the squeeziest? The wheeziest? The easiest and breeziest? But how about the slideyest...the squonkiest...the blowiest...?" The work's title might give away the child's eventual pick, but readers will have a fun time arriving at his final decision. While at first overwhelmed at having to master the 88 keys of the piano, the boy is determined to learn one note at a time. Thomas's watercolor illustrations accentuate the silly narrative, adding pizzazz and fluidity to the text. The warm browns and yellows evoke a place of comfort—while the narrator is frazzled by his plethora of selections, he's secure in his ability to eventually choose. The illustrator's expressive line emphasizes each of the characters' reactions with humor and gusto. VERDICT A delightful offering for reading aloud, especially during music-themed storytimes.—Shelley Diaz, School Library Journal

"What do you want to be when you grow up?" Miss Rayna gives Charley and her classmates a daunting prompt as part of Dream Big Week. "I want to be an astronaut!" "I'm going to be a famous actor!" "I'm going to be an engineer!" Students excitedly spout off goals, inscribing their dreams on a pair of custom wings that Miss Rayna hands out. Charley doesn't share her peers' enthusiasm--she has no idea how to answer such a big question. As Charley's anxiety swells, Reynolds uses color, tone, and perspective to show just how overwhelmed she feels; one particularly strong illustration depicts a rocket blasting off, reflected in her large round glasses, a look of dizzying panic on her face. Walking home, Charley feels frozen with uncertainty when she notices something that points her in the right direction--and has her feeling determined, confident, and ready for her wings. Reynolds conveys a message of perseverance, reassuring readers that it's OK not to have all the answers. His airy, inspiring illustrations burst with warm orange tones. The story is sure to spark similar activities or dialogue among classrooms participating in their own Dream Big Week-type celebration. Charley is tan-skinned; her class is diverse. A rousing story to kickstart conversations about growth and determination. (author's note)(Picture book. 4-8) COPYRIGHT(2025) Kirkus Reviews, ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.

Shepard had a personal mission as well: he had smuggled two golf balls and a golf club head, designed to attach to the shaft of a rock scoop, aboard the spacecraft. After completing his scientific work, he assembled his makeshift club and attempted to hit the golf balls. Though his helmet obstructed his downward vision, and his stiff, bulky space suit limited his movements, according to Shepard, his final shot sent the ball "miles and miles," a claim that was later disputed. Still, he became the first person to hit a golf ball on the moon. Imaginatively illustrated to help viewers visualize the astronauts' journey and their activities on the lunar surface, this picture book includes some interesting facts about the Apollo 14 mission within the text. The extensive back matter briefly summarizes each Apollo moon mission as well as Shepard's career as an astronaut. A fresh approach to the history of space exploration. And it's funny: if the goal is first to entertain, any browser will be quickly hooked. Most of the information in the volume is instantly digestible and absolutely unforgettable, and that's saying something. Back matter includes for reference multiplication grids and tables, fractions, decimals and percentages, units of measurements, geometric shapes and angles, glossary, index, mammoth on the moon, signs and symbols, solutions to problems in the text, exhausted shrews, and a space alien. VERDICT Both classic and forward-looking, perfect for browsing and research, this exhaustive guide to the realm of number-based thinking and fact-gathering could not be any clearer, any more welcome, and any more more.-Kimberly Olson Fakiha(c) Copyright 2011

Title and Author of Book:	The Boy Who Loved Math: The Improbable Life of Paul Erdos by Deborah Heiligman
Professional Reviews Available: *If no professional reviews are available, the rubric below may not be applicable.	Review Status: ▾ Starred Review Though eccentric mathematician Paul Erdos might seem an unusual subject for a picture book, his story makes for a memorable biography. Growing up in Hungary during WWI, Erdos tried school but chafed at the rules and convinced his mother that he should study at home. He was fascinated by numbers from an early age, and by the time he was 20, he was known as The Magician from Budapest. Unable to do common tasks such as cooking, laundry, or driving, he spent his adult life flying around the world, staying with other mathematicians, and working collaboratively on challenging math problems. Math is woven into the lively writing (Mama loved Paul to infinity. Paul loved Mama to 8, too!). The wonderfully vivid artwork, where ideas from the text are clarified, also uses decorative elements to support the idea that Erdos saw the world differently—numerically. Heiligman appends a lengthy note about writing the book, while Pham offers a more extensive note on creating the illustrations, in which she comments on the mathematical ideas and mathematicians depicted in the art. This excellent picture-book biography celebrates a man little known outside his field, but one well worth knowing. Grades K-3. --Carolyn Phelan

Superintendent's Newsletter

May 1, 2026

Message of the Month

Dear School Community,

During the first 6-8 weeks of the school year - our faculty and staff members concentrate on setting expectations and building community with their students. Now, with the end of the school year around the corner - our faculty and staff members will utilize the last 6-8 weeks of school to finish the goals that the students have strived to meet this year and find ways to celebrate their efforts and achievements. From field days, to traditional field trips, and with graduations quickly approaching - our school community will have many opportunities to close out the school year in style.

Additionally, our Town Meetings are quickly approaching. On May 11th both Marion and Mattapoissett will host their Annual Town Meetings. Rochester will then hold their Annual Town Meeting on May 18th. At these Town Meetings the schools budget for the 2026-2027 school year and related articles (capital requests and health insurance funds) will be presented to the voters for consideration. It is my hope that our school stakeholders consider attending these meetings.

As always, thank you for your continued partnership and support of education in our school community.

Please take a few minutes to read through the most recent Superintendent's Newsletter.

Respectfully,

Michael S. Nelson

ORR Campus Highlights: Celebrating Our Students

Junior High School: The JHS Drama Club mesmerized the audience with their production of Adventures of the Fearless Pirate Frank.

The cast fully embraced the humor and chaos of the show, making it fun, unpredictable, and memorable from start to finish. From big laughs to creative twists and even a surprise cameo that had the audience buzzing, it was a great reminder of how much talent and personality our junior high students bring to the stage.

High School

- National Honor Society Induction: We are so proud of the 26 students inducted into the National Honor Society. Surrounded by family, friends, and staff, the ceremony recognized their commitment to scholarship, leadership, service, character, and knowledge. It was a meaningful evening that reflected the strength and promise of these students.
- AP Student Presentations: Our AP students also put on an impressive showcase of their work, sharing thoughtful, well researched presentations that reflected months of dedication. A panel of judges that included Ms. Brunelle, Mr. Apperson, and Ms. Barker asked challenging questions that pushed students to think deeply and speak with confidence. Their ideas, creativity, and poise were evident throughout, with one especially powerful presentation exploring AI generated music that stayed with the audience.
- Credit for Life: Kudos to Mr. Devoll, Ms. Millette, Ms. Cioffi and high school staff for their work in holding the Credit for Life Fair at the High School this past month. A special thank you to businesses that came to support our students in learning financial literacy through real life examples. An amazing learning experience for our students to be prepared for life after high school.
- Earth Day in ILC: In addition, our ILC students took on Earth Day with hands on projects focused on caring for the environment. Their work was both creative and purposeful, showing a genuine commitment to making a difference.

Elementary School Moments Worth Celebrating

Our elementary schools have been full of creativity, confidence, and joyful moments that brought our community together.

Marion: At Sippican School, the Arts in Action evening was a meaningful celebration of student creativity, with every child's artwork proudly displayed. Families and community members had the chance to experience the wide range of student talent, while the Music Café added to the evening with student performances on a variety of instruments. The event not only highlighted student achievement but also supported and strengthened our creative arts programs.

Mattapoissett: At Old Hammondtown and Center Schools, the K to 6 Student Art Show showcased an incredible range of student work, from detailed drawings to imaginative sculptures and animal creations. Students were so proud to share their artwork with family and friends, and the event truly reflected the creativity that makes our schools so special. A heartfelt thank you goes to our dedicated art teacher, Ms. Anderson, for inspiring and supporting our young artists.

Rochester: Rochester Memorial School hosted a lively and inspiring Talent Show, where students took the stage and shared their unique abilities. From musical performances to creative acts, the evening highlighted both courage and creativity. Organized by Mrs. Cruz and Mrs. Pacheco, along with the support of student ambassadors, the event created a welcoming and energetic atmosphere for families and staff. It was a wonderful celebration of student voice and confidence.

There is so much to be proud of across our schools. These moments truly highlight the energy, talent, and heart of our students. These moments capture the creativity, confidence, and sense of community that define our youngest learners.

Students Turn Food Waste into a Hands-On Learning Experience

Many wellness initiatives take place across our schools. The District Wellness Committee collaborates to providing school environments that promote and protect students' health, well-being and ability to learn by supporting lifelong habits of healthy eating and physical activity. The Marion Institute's Grow Education Program plays a key role in this work at Old Hammondtown, Rochester Memorial and Sippican Schools.

Students across Old Rochester Regional School District and MA Superintendency Union #55 schools are gaining a deeper understanding of food systems and sustainability through a hands-on food waste workshop led by the Marion Institute's Grow Education program. "This workshop was an eye-opening experience for our students, transforming how they view their daily meals," said Jill Henesey, Director of Food and Nutrition Services at Old Rochester Regional School District & MA Superintendency Union #55. "Reducing food waste begins with the very first step: choosing the foods they want to eat. Our goal is for students to fuel their minds with nutritious choices, while also empowering them to make the next best decision if they have leftovers—saving food for later or sharing it with a peer through the share table. By making waste tangible, we help students become mindful consumers who recognize the value of their resources and understand the impact of their choices." Read more.
