Despite an early and challenging winter, construction across the district continues to make strong progress. At the athletic fields site, crews completed demolition, major earthwork, and most utility work before the deep freeze. The stadium remains on track for the fall sports season.

Work on the High School building additions is also moving forward. Crews are working through winter conditions to get these areas enclosed so interior finishing can continue. These spaces are expected to be completed in early summer.

This winter, work will begin on a small library project (expected to be completed in December 2025) and the new weight and fitness area, which is scheduled to be ready for summer programs.

As soon as the weather allows in the spring, site work will restart in several areas. Once school is out for the summer, major site construction will begin across the entire campus. This phase of work is scheduled for completion in September 2026.
