AP Human Geography Summer Assignment: Place Name Geography

Welcome to AP Human Geography! One important skill in geography is knowing where places are located. While memorizing countries is not the main focus of AP Human Geography, having a strong awareness of world geography will help you better understand patterns, relationships, migration, culture, economics, politics, and global events throughout the course.

Your Assignment

Over the summer, you must complete the following:

- Label all countries on the provided world maps
- Label all 50 U.S. states on the provided United States map
- Practice identifying these locations on a map in preparation for a test. There are a variety of online games you can play to practice. You can also find blank maps online to print to practice.

Why Are We Doing This?

Knowing where places are located will help you:

- Recognize global and regional patterns
- Better understand class discussions and current events
- Make stronger connections between topics throughout the course
- Develop geographic awareness and thinking skills

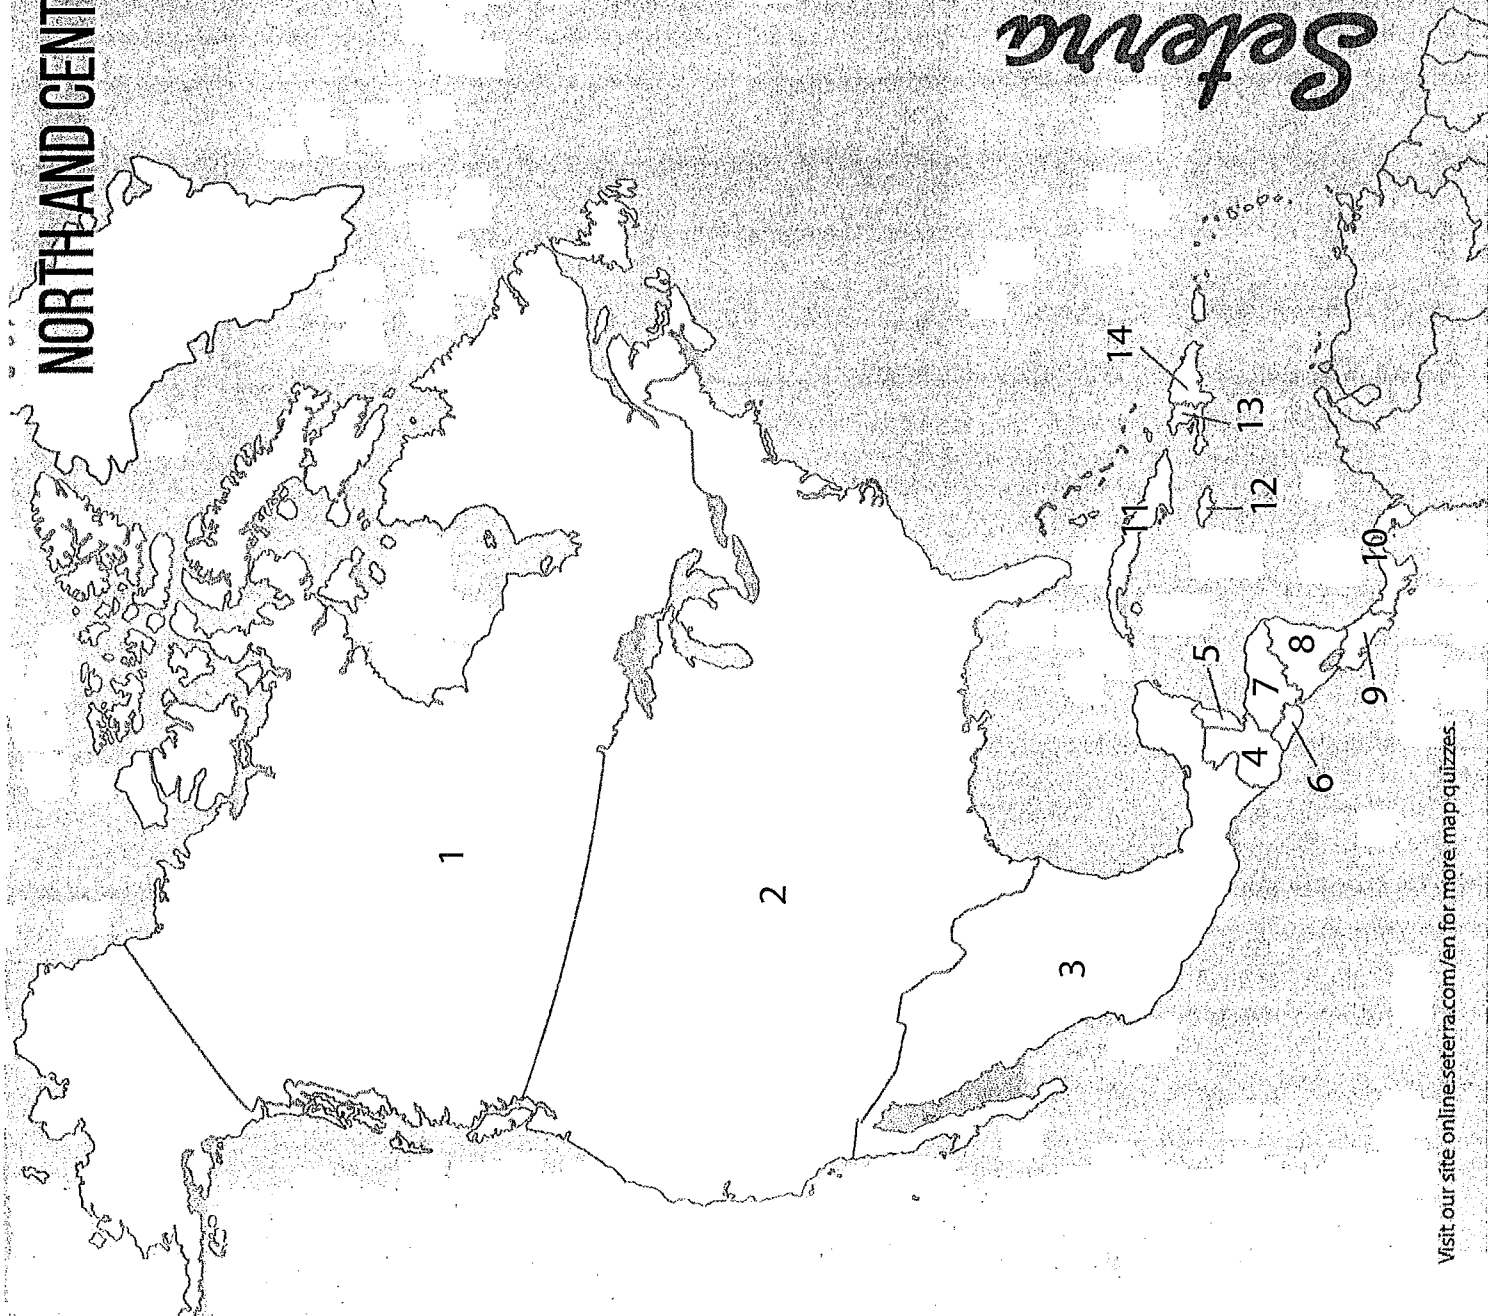

Assessment

During the first week of school, you will take a map test that includes:

- A selection of approximately 100 countries from around the world
- Identification of U.S. states

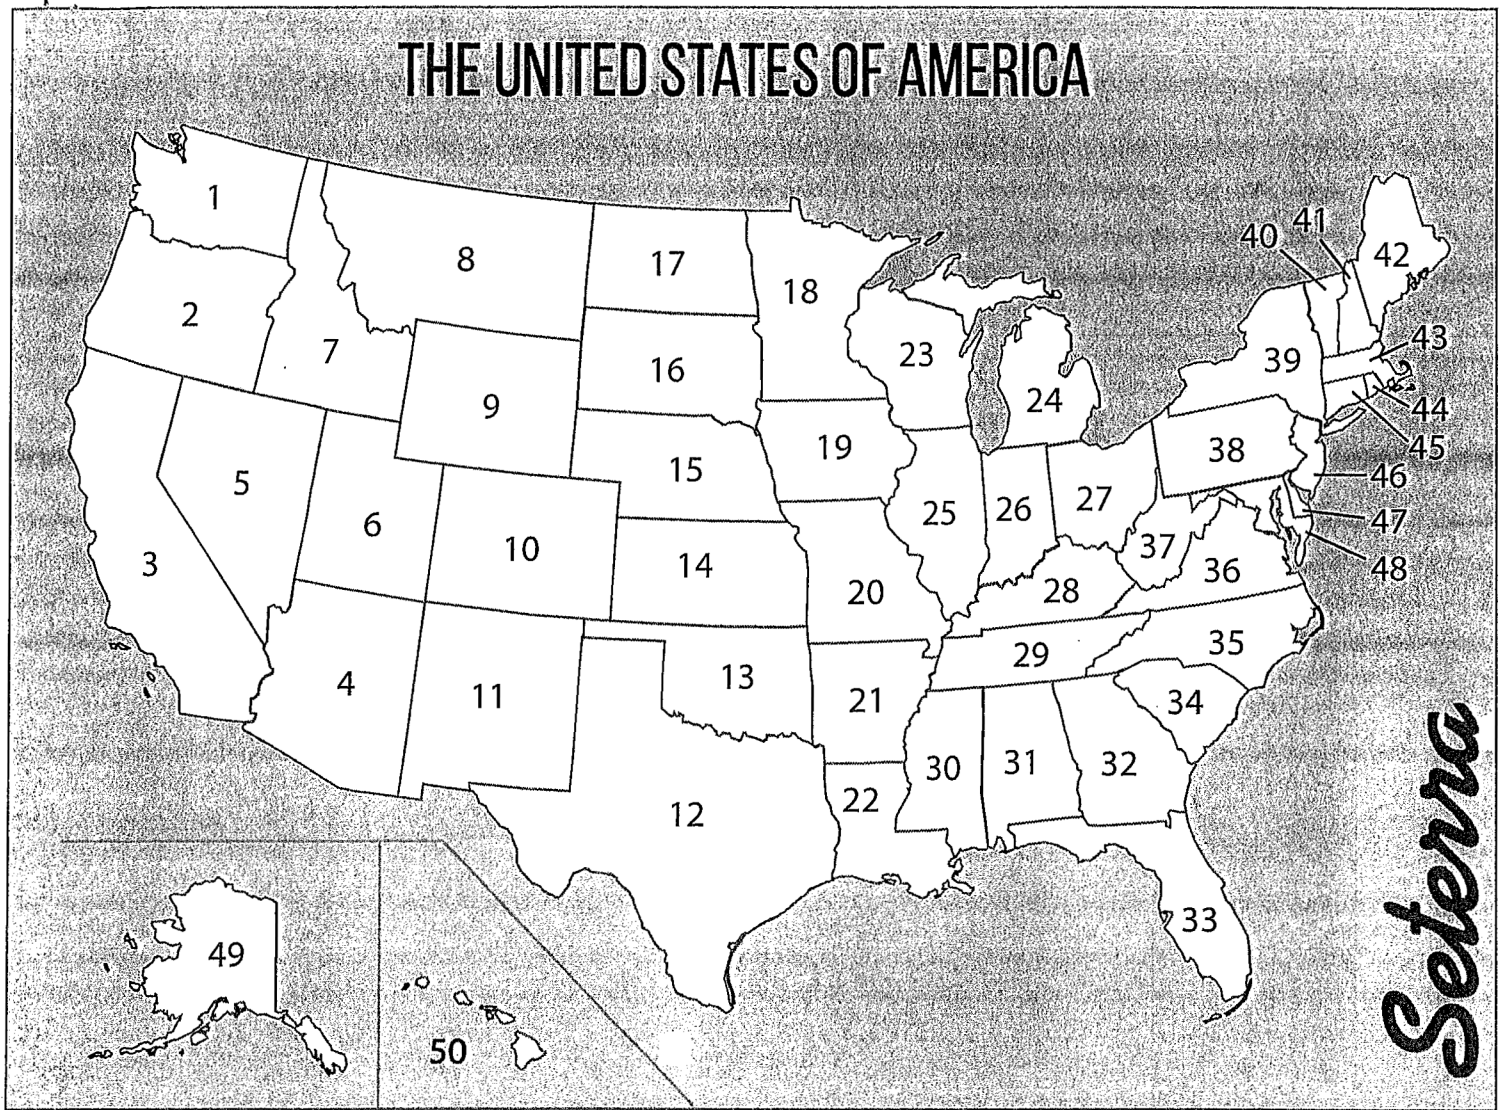

The test will be based on the maps you completed during the summer assignment. You will also have to turn in this packet on the day of the test.
