Dear parent/guardian and student,

We are excited for you as you start your sophomore year. The Counseling staff is here to serve you and is available in the Counseling Office daily for counseling with individuals or groups beginning July 27th. As always, we will assist with your academic, social-emotional, and college/career needs. Please see the counseling assignments on the next page.

Now that freshman year is behind you, it is time to start thinking about your future plans. Every year thousands of students ask themselves, “What do I want to do after I graduate from high school? Will I continue my education beyond high school by attending a two-year or four-year college, a vocational or technical school, or by joining the union or the armed forces? Will I start my career by entering the workforce?” Different fields of work require specific types of training. Just as there are occupations that require college or advanced degrees, there are occupations which require technical training, work experience, or training in a particular skill. These next three years are incredibly important as you consider your post-high school plans and make sure you take courses that will help you determine whether you transition to college, technical school, the military, apprenticeship, or workforce.

Career planning should begin early. Some students have known since they were children what they want to do; others will need to determine their interests. However, all students plan for a career in the following ways:

- Take the proper courses to gain the academic knowledge you will need.
- Investigate careers both in and out of school.
- Utilize our college-career readiness platform, Naviance.
- Participate in mentoring, job shadowing and career-day opportunities whenever possible. A job shadow list is available on the counseling website.
- Get some on-the-job experience in a field that interests you.
- Visit the Counseling Office and explore various careers using resource materials.
- Review Counseling links on www.lphs.net/academics/student-support/counseling

Counselors will be working on schedules July 27th through registration. Please refrain from contacting your counselor until your designated registration day with any change requests. No change requests to first semester schedules will be allowed beyond the registration days and final schedules will be distributed in homerooms the first day of school. The first day of school is scheduled for Tuesday, August 11th. We hope you are enjoying your summer and look forward to seeing you soon.
