MY PREDICTION for 2026

We'll have gone completely metric and calculators will be required for math class.

Blue jeans will be "Old Fashioned" (today blue jeans must be ~~at~~ below your ankles ~~to~~ to be acceptable)

First Graders might be found reading "nasty" books.

They might not have to ~~leave~~ leave home for school because it'll be on T.V (television) or radio. Travel agencies will be handing out pamphlets to "Shangri-La" (James Hilton's Lost Horizon) and other out-of-the-way places.

Local transportation will be with conveyor belts.

Out-of-town transportation will be by mono rail set in such a way that if a small child or animal would ~~step~~ step in front of it, it would stop a meter from the child or animal. It would stop at stations for people to get on. For overseas transportation they will travel by ship or air.

They'll have robots to do sports for entertainment but people will still do sports so they don't get overweight.

Michigan City will become a medium size city with a few suburbs and no pollution.

I hope the woods on Barker Rd. will still exist.

The energy of 2026 may be from volcanos
(geothermal) or from the sun (solar).
