WEEK ONE

TUESDAY, JUNE 16

Introduction to the Enneagram
(8:30 - 11:30)

Jen Winter

Ever ask, “Why did he do that?” or “Why does she care so much?” The Enneagram is an amazing personality tool that has been used for decades and gives you insight into the motivations of yourself and others. All people see the world through one of nine perspectives, which in turn has an effect on all areas of one’s life. This course is for beginners to figure out their own Enneagram number, or even to verify their number, and get a glimpse into their own behavioral motivations.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17

Myers-Briggs Personality Assessment
(8:30 - 11:30)

Jen Winter

PART 1: Prerequisite to PM session
All people are wired differently, and lots of times we are blind to our own pitfalls and challenges. The MyersBriggs Personality Assessment will guide participants through the process of discovering different ways they interact with people, information and life experiences.

THURSDAY, JUNE 18

Bridges Out of Poverty
(8:30 - 11:30)

Emily Goetz

This workshop provides a foundational overview of the economic, social, and hidden rules of class, designed to help service providers and community members understand the realities of poverty.

TUESDAY, JUNE 16

Deep Dive into the Enneagram
(12:30 - 3:30)

Jen Winter

The Enneagram is an amazing personality tool that has been used for decades and gives insight into the motivations of people. This course is designed for people who already know their Enneagram number and want to go deeper into their studies. Understanding what motivates you, angers you, etc. is a helpful tool to bring balance into your professional and personal lives. We’ll discuss helpful, unique strategies based on your own Enneagram number. You’ll leave with a general understanding of the nine different ways of looking at the world.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17

Myers-Briggs Personality Assessment
(12:30 - 3:30)

Jen Winter

PART 2: Must attend AM session
Gaining insight into personality traits (extraversion/introversion, intuitive/observant, thinking/feeling, judging/prospecting) can help us have compassion and understanding with ourselves and others. Understanding your personality type will not only help you become a better you, but it will help your relationships personally and professionally.

THURSDAY, JUNE 18

Art as a Vessel: Honoring Process in Hands-On Design
(12:30 - 3:30)

Marie Taylor

Rooted in Montessori principles and trauma-informed practice, this workshop positions art-making as a healing modality and pedagogical framework. Participants engage in hands-on design experiences while exploring how honoring process over product transforms classroom culture.

Teachers leave with applicable strategies for integrating art as ritual, reflection, and restoration across all content areas — not only in art classrooms.

WEEK TWO

TUESDAY, JUNE 23

Generations in U.S. Society

(8:30 - 11:30)

Jen Winter

Are you a Baby Boomer? Maybe Gen X? Millennial? This course takes a historical, psychological and sociological look at how cohorts of people might think, behave, etc. based on their generation. It's more than just your taste in music and movies; it's also insight into human behavior based on the interaction of historical events and stages of human development. We'll look into positive traits of each generation, but also some possible pitfalls we are seeing, as well as how to use this information moving forward.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24

Canva: An Educator's

BFF!

(8:30 - 11:30)

Lisa Cundiff

This session will focus on basic Canva design tools. If you do not have a Canva account, click HERE to register as an educator before attending this class so you will be ready to learn about how Canva can turn you into a creative genius. There will be time for hands-on exploration.

THURSDAY, JUNE 25

AI Tools for Educators

(8:30 - 11:30)

Ronnie Williams

Explore how AI can streamline lesson planning, create engaging instructional materials, and simplify sub plans. This session blends foundational AI strategies with practical classroom applications that save time and improve instructional quality.

TUESDAY, JUNE 23

Generations in the Classroom

(12:30 - 3:30)

Jen Winter

Gen Z and Gen Alpha are now being taught in schools across the USA. Life has changed at a rapid pace for these kids, and parents and teachers are trying to figure out how to parent and teach these digital natives. Like all previous generations, there are difficulties and challenges that need to be addressed. We'll review a brief historical lesson (in case you missed the morning session) and then dive deeper into the issues unique to the children we are currently teaching and/or raising.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24

Canva: But Wait, There's More!

(12:30 - 3:30)

Lisa Cundiff

This session is for those who are already familiar with Canva's design tools and want to discover new or more advanced Canva tools. We will explore AI, Canva partners, using Canva Classroom, working with layers and more! Time for hands-on exploration of features will be included.

THURSDAY, JUNE 25

Personalized Learning with Digital Tools: Strategies and Must-Know Websites

(12:30 - 3:30)

Ronnie Williams

Discover effective strategies and high-impact digital tools that support personalized instruction for all learners. This session highlights essential websites and practical approaches educators can immediately implement to meet diverse student needs.

Please Note: Cricut 1.0 is also available on June 23rd in the AM and Cricut 2.0 is available on the 23rd in the PM . Visit the DJBLC website for session descriptions.
