There has not been a lot of movement this week, but the Capital Improvement Committee will meet again next week to resume planning.

At Campus High School, the architects are finalizing plans for the locker rooms. They have met with staff to gather input and feedback on design priorities and are now incorporating those ideas into the final drawings. This step will allow the project to prepare for the construction phase with a design that reflects both functionality and long-term durability.

Additional planning continues on upcoming projects, and the district is working closely with contractors and engineers to address facility needs and support the timeline for improvements.
