

EPQ Bridging Work: Choosing a question ? 🤔

 Task 1: What A Level subjects have you chosen and which areas are you particularly interested in?

Subject	Area of particular interest
Eg History	First world war battles, esp. the Battle of the Somme

 Task 2: What are your interests outside school?

Interest	Area of particular interest
Football	Use of VAR in refereeing football games

 Task 3: What are you particularly curious about? Choose 2 things from each of your lists and ask questions you want to know about them:

	Questions?
E.g. VAR	Should it be used? Does it help with decisions? Does it impact the flow of the game?

 Task 4: Are there resources available? Do a quick search online to see if there are plenty of resources on your chosen topic.

 Task 5: Is there something to explore, discuss or debate in these topics?

Outline what they are:

Topic	Debate/controversies
VAR	Some argue it disrupts momentum, damages fan celebrations, causes tension on the pitch, others argue it improves refereeing accuracy.

 What do I want to get out of the EPQ? What are your post-18 aspirations?

 If you know what your post-18 plans are, choose a related EPQ question. For example, if you want to study Psychology, choose a Q on a particular aspect of Psychology you're curious about such as 'To what extent are humans naturally selfish?'

 If you don't know what your post-18 plans are, choose a topic you are really interested in and will stay motivated to research over the course of year 12.

 Task 6: Come up with 3 possible EPQ questions. They don't have to be on the same topic. To ensure debate, it's helpful to start your Q with phrases such as:

To what extent... To what degree... How... In what way... Why...
