

OSCE Family Affair 2026

Audio	Video
[Doctor Thibeaux] So today I want to welcome you	Smiling students sign in at registration table while others wait behind them to LSU Health Shreveport's inaugural College and Health Care Readiness Bootcamp. Starting today, we are shaping the next generation of health care professionals.	Large auditorium full of people decorated with Family Affair banners and balloons. A family listens intently as a women in a beige suit addresses them from the podium
We're talking about academic success. More importantly, we're talking about	Many families sit in auditorium listening to presentation readiness. How well prepared are your children for the journey in medical education? And that starts as early middle school.	Woman with medium complexion and long dark braids, wearing a beige suit coat and white L S U Health Shreveport t shirt stands in front of a poster with student success clues in a word search puzzle Text: Toni Thibeaux, E d D Assistant Vice Chancellor for Student and Community Engagement
So we're going to talk about the rigorous courses that they need to take	Group in auditorium voting with green thumbs up signs and how that better prepares them for the A C T and	Audience watches screens as representatives from the A A M C talk to them via video conference matriculating and enrolling into college.	Doctor Ishop at front of room talking to audience [Doctor Ishop] Preparation starts early. It's really exciting to have high school students thinking early about what it is they need to do to get ready, and to give up some time on a Saturday morning in July to do it,	Tall woman with medium complexion and long braids pulled off her shoulders standing in front of a Family Affair Banner Text: Doctor Kedra Ishop Senior V P for Higher Education, Membership and Access The College Board says a lot about their early motivation.	Young woman with fair complexion and shoulder length dark hair (Joy) smiling and shaking a purple pompom

Audio	Video
[Joy] Today I'm here to just learn anything more to help strengthen my application and see where that takes me.	Joy standing front of a Family Affair backdrop circled by balloons Text: Joy Dong McNeese State University Senior
[Doctor Thibeaux] First of all, I want them to leave knowing that LSU Health Shreveport is here to support them on their medical school journey or whatever that health care field needs to be. Number two, I want them to feel comfortable sitting beside their parents, gaining information about how they can become more successful, and hopefully as a family unit, they can take this information back home and it becomes a family discussion in their home environment.	Montage of students and families seated in an auditorium listening intently as Doctor Ishop addresses them from the podium
[Skylar] I hope to learn more about the admissions process, and about how I can better ready myself while I'm at school. I am trying to get involved with more clubs and more organizations	Doctor Ishop at the podium asking for audience responses. Skylar is seated beside her family listening intently.
in order to better prepare my resume for the application process, and I am hoping that LSU Health Shreveport can help show me the way and bring me back home.	Young woman with medium complexion and short, dark curly hair wearing a light blue blazer (Skylar) in front of a Family Affair backdrop circled by balloons Text: Skylar Cardwell Spelman College Sophomore