

Simple things

Sugar in coffee
Honey in tea
Birds chirping in harmony
Rain on a feather
Dew on a leaf
Petals on flowers
Leaves on trees
Puddles in gutters
Sheets on a bed
Cotton in fields
Water in lakes
Pencils on paper
Blue of the sea
Clouds passing by sky over head
Sun in the morning
Moon in the night
Stars in the galaxy
These are the
Simple things

Fox In Winter

By Maxwell

*He pounces on the rodents below,
To the fox they say, "you'll never catch us, no!"
The mice shiver from fear and cold,
For winter and fate scold,
The unfortunate mice are no match,
For the fox has made his catch,
And now he must rest,
He's gotten the pest,
Tomorrow he shall hunt again,
But for now, he must sit in his den.*