Richmond County School System to operate on a normal schedule Tuesday, Feb. 3

(AUGUSTA, GEORGIA) – The Richmond County School System (RCSS) will operate on a normal schedule on Tuesday, Feb. 3, as school system leaders continue to monitor weather conditions across the area.

The school system is working closely with local and regional emergency officials, as well as the National Weather Service, to stay informed about current and projected conditions. While a cold weather advisory remains in effect, no disruptions to school or office operations are anticipated at this time.

Families and staff are encouraged to dress warmly, allow extra time for transportation, and use caution while traveling, particularly during the morning hours when temperatures are expected to be especially low. Bus drivers will exercise additional caution on the roads in the morning as they transport students to school.

RCSS will continue to monitor conditions closely. Any updates or changes will be communicated through the school system's inclement weather landing page at www.rcboe.org/weatherupdates, the Infinite Campus Parent Portal, social media channels, and local news outlets.
