Proposition 28 expanded student access to high-quality visual and performing arts instruction across the district by funding staff and materials which supported students with enriching experiences that fostered creativity, collaboration, critical thinking, and artistic expression. Co-funded staff at the elementary level included two music teachers (1 at Sierra Vista and 1 at Bear Mountain) and three elementary visual arts teachers. A second visual arts teacher was placed at the middle school fully funded totally by Prop 28. Funds were also used to purchase supplemental art and music instructional materials, supplies, and equipment. These materials supported hands-on learning experiences, expanded access to high-quality instructional resources, and provided students with meaningful opportunities to engage in visual and performing arts.
