

Hello! I'm Naomi

About Me

Originally from Arroyo Grande, CA, I fell in love with dance at four years old when I started taking lessons at Coastal Dance and Music Academy, and I've never looked back! From the beginning, I loved the way dance felt liberating, allowing me to express myself when I did not have the words. I also loved its constant challenge and found so much satisfaction in seeing my own gradual improvement. After training at San Luis Obispo Movement Arts Center at the beginning of high school, my family and I moved to Austin, TX where I had the privilege of training with the Ballet Austin Academy. Both of these studios confirmed my love of dance as I was continually challenged to push for bigger and better goals and had the opportunities to work with many guest artists from around the country. While at Belhaven University earning my BFA in Dance, I discovered my love of teaching as I was able to take several dance pedagogy classes and earned a certification in Pilates. Since graduation, I have worked as a professional ballet dancer with the Montgomery Ballet and continue to teach dance and Pilates around the city. Dance is such an amazing form of expression, creativity, and joy, and I am so excited to help other kids find their love of movement like I did!
