[Dr. Gestal] So the Fundación Barrié de la Maza is a nonprofit organization. Is located in Galicia. That is the northwest area of Spain. And they gave fellowships for	Program director and student in a lab, wearing white lab coats looking at a plate with growth on it.
undergrads, and master programs, MBA programs, as well as post-doctoral programs.	Montage of student and graduate student scraping plates and preparing suspension liquids
When I got the position here as an alumni that I am from the Fundación Barrié, we decided to establish this partnership and have an undergraduate, opportunity	Woman with dark hair over both shoulders wearing a black blouse and white lab coat sitting at a bench in a lab Text: Monica Gestal, PhD Director, Fundación Barrié Summer Internship for Spanish students, to come here to a LSU Health in Shreveport and perform science in a	Student wearing a lab coat and gloves peering through a microscope top notch institute where they can actually have a project, be leaders, and get ownership of that project and learn what it means to be a researcher.	Montage of student standing beside director at a computer in lab as she points out different parts of a cell on a screen [Adrián] I'm really happy to be here. I, I see Research more as an option now than I did before. And I think,	Young man with dark hair just brushing his eyes, wearing a white lab coat leaning on a lab bench next to some equipment Text: Adrián Rodriguez Fundación Barrié Summer Intern really an amazing opportunity, for Spaniards to, to come here and see how really high	Adrián and grad student preparing vial and samples at a lab bench level research works, which is something that is actually hard to, to see in Spain.	Adrián on camera beside a work bench [Dr. Gestal] And, three of our students have come back with another program that we established with Fundación Barrié that is a PhD scholarship. And they have been very successful. One such student is in my lab. He is only about	Montage of Grad student explaining equipment to Adrian as he setup up an experiment with mist filling a chamber to start his third year, and he has already got several awards he has presented in international conferences. So these are students are really outstanding.	Montage of grad student at computer viewing waveform graphics as they scroll across screen

Because this program, the undergrad summer program was so successful, what started as a partnership between us LSU and Fundación Barrié,	Montage of student preparing a sample in a vial as a graduate student speaks with another student has now, expanded in other universities such as Harvard, Michigan, or even in the United Kingdom. UCL, that is, University College of London are also part of this internship program.	Dr. Gestal on camera in lab [Adrián] I think anyone, who has the opportunity to do have come here is absolutely worth it.	Adrián and Dr. Gestal discussing growths on a plate
