DANGER ZONES AROUND THE SCHOOL BUS

Students must be aware of the danger zones around the bus, where it is most difficult for the bus driver to see them. Staying out of these areas can prevent serious injury.

FRONT DANGER ZONE:

The 10 feet directly in front of the bus. Students should always cross at least 10 giant steps, or about 10 feet, in front of the bus after making eye contact with the bus driver and waiting for the bus driver's signal.

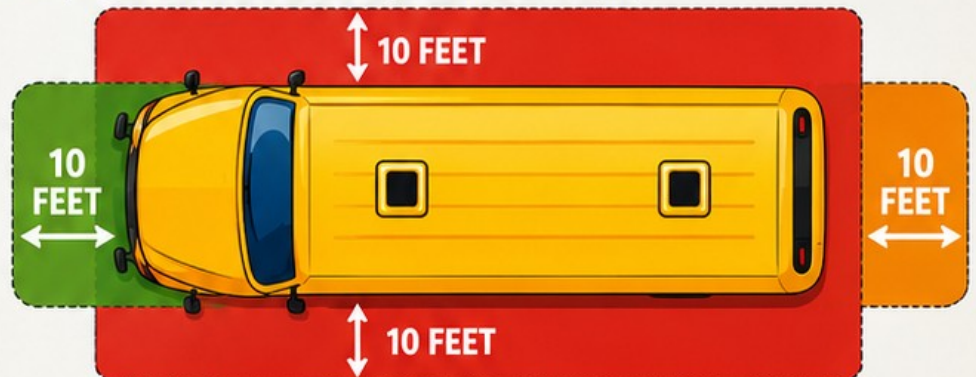

REAR DANGER ZONE:

The 10 feet directly behind the bus. Never walk behind the bus for any reason.

SIDE DANGER ZONES:

The 10 feet along each side of the bus. Stay away from the wheels and doors.

REMEMBER: If you cannot see the bus driver's face, the bus driver cannot see you.

Always maintain eye contact before crossing and wait until the bus driver gives the signal that it is safe to proceed.
