Critical Needs in the District (K-12 Campus, single building):

The critical need of the district is to ensure there are counseling services in all three building wings. The elementary had reduced a counselor and the social emotional needs increased. There is an increase in student behaviors that also result in a greater need for more resource officer time to complete safety investigations, well checks, and student referral meetings. The need to increase the availability of the school resource officer to ensure the peace and safety of the students is a priority. In a partnership with Beaver Police Department, the district will be supported with SRO/DARE coverage as well as substitute officers as needed.

Strategies: Research, select, or continue using evidence-based strategies that increase student wellness and success.

The research has proven that elementary students require access to social emotional support. The education and counseling support that a school counselor provides is vital to their growth and development. The availability of a counselor to support the PBIS program as well as support staff with behavior modifications positively affects student learning. School Resource officers have become an important part of schools daily routines. The availability of an SRO to support the education of students and remediation of behaviors is imperative. The access to an SRO provides a sense of security and peace to the staff and students providing a safe place to learn and grow as students.
