

My Future

My ECCCO internship has shown me what environments and what factors I work best in. Without this internship, I would've never known that being a data analysis could be so difficult and so precise. This is why I have decided to stick to my original plan of pursuing a job in healthcare as it aligns better with my values better. Maybe in the near future, I might just end up with something in data because of this internship which I'll be fine with.
