

Did you know we sponsor service leadership programs at every Los Alamos public school and the New Mexico School for the Deaf?

Kiwanis youth programs teach students leadership skills in student-led, service-orientated clubs. Programs are tiered by age group:

K-Kids: At Aspen, Barranca, Chamisa, Mountain, Pinon and the New Mexico School for the Deaf (each campus determines the grades that can participate). K-Kids focus on character building, kindness, and community service.

Builders Club: At Los Alamos Middle School. Builders Club emphasizes leadership development and community engagement.

Key Club: At Los Alamos High School. Key Club is the oldest and largest teen-led service program in the world, focusing on volunteering and developing future leaders.
