2. DATA COLLECTION ANALYSIS

2.6 Data Analysis Questions

Analyze the LEA's data and answer the guiding questions to determine existing trends and patterns that support the identification of demographic and financial needs. Student subgroups with a count of less than 15 are denoted by "TFS" (too few students).

What perception data did you use? [examples: student perceptions about school climate issues (health survey, violence, prejudice, bullying, etc.); student/parent perceptions about the effectiveness of programs or interventions; student understanding of relationship of school to career or has an academic plan]	Perception - Climate & Culture Surveys (Teacher, Student, Parent)
What does the perception data tell you? (perception data can describe people's knowledge, attitudes, beliefs, perceptions, competencies; perception data can also answer the question "What do people think they know, believe, or can do?")	div data-message-author-role="assistant" data-message-id="4a928019-04ea-4922-bd12-eb09f14d64d7" dir="auto" data-message-model-slug="gpt-5-5-mini"The perception data indicated a positive school culture while identifying opportunities to strengthen engagement, communication, and consistency of expectations among students, staff, and families.
What process data did you use? (examples: student participation in school activities, sports, clubs, arts; student participation in special programs such as peer mediation, counseling, skills conferences; parent/student participation in events such as college information meetings and parent workshops)	PBIS input, attendance data, participation in mentoring programs and credit recovery programs
What does the process data tell you? (process data describes the way programs are conducted; provides evidence of participant involvement in programs; answers the question "What did you do for whom?")	The data indicated a need to strengthen attendance, engagement, and targeted academic/behavioral supports for students.

What achievement data did you use?	Achievement - EOC Data, Pass/fail rates and Graduation rate
What does your achievement data tell you?	The achievement data shows strong Algebra and AP performance, with opportunities for growth in Biology and U.S. History. While failure rates remain higher than desired, a strong graduation rate indicates effective remediation and support systems that help students get back on track.
What demographic data did you use?	Demographic - School Profile
What does the demographic data tell you?	S has experienced a changing environment over the past several years. Our student population has become more transient and increasingly diverse, Looking through data compiled during the previous school year, we were able to identify areas of strengths and weaknesses. (strengths = 1. Exemplary; weaknesses = 3. Emerging)

3. NEEDS IDENTIFICATION AND ROOT CAUSE ANALYSIS

3.1 Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

Read the trends and patterns summaries from each section of the data analysis process. Use the information in these summaries to complete 3.2 and 3.3. Using the summaries in 3.1 and other local data, describe the strengths and challenges or answer the guiding questions for each program. Include strengths and challenges related to: a) general program implementation, and b) students and adults involved in or affected by the program. Focus on strengths and challenges that will assist in the identification of needs during 3.3.

Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

Coherent Instructional: Summarize the coherent instructional system trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	The team's review of the coherent instructional system identified increased collaboration through common planning, shared pacing guides, and greater implementation of district instructional initiatives. However, inconsistencies remain in the implementation of instructional practices across classrooms. The review also highlighted the need to strengthen the use of formative assessment, data-driven instruction, and literacy across all content areas to improve student engagement and achievement. These trends indicate the need for students to experience consistent, rigorous, literacy-rich instruction with timely interventions. Teachers need continued support through collaborative planning, instructional coaching, and professional learning focused on literacy and effective data use. School leaders should continue monitoring instructional expectations, providing targeted feedback, and supporting professional learning communities to ensure consistent, high-quality instruction and improved student outcomes.
Effective Leadership: Summarize the effective leadership trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	The team's review of effective leadership identified a strong culture of collaboration, clear communication, and shared responsibility for school improvement. Leadership structures have increased teacher voice, strengthened collaboration, and supported a positive school culture focused on continuous improvement. The team also recognized a need for greater consistency in monitoring instructional expectations, providing targeted feedback, and using data to guide instructional decisions and professional learning. These trends highlight the need for students to experience consistent, high-quality instruction in every classroom, for teachers to receive ongoing coaching, collaboration, and professional learning aligned to school priorities, and for leaders to continue building leadership capacity while monitoring the implementation and impact of instructional initiatives. Strengthening these areas will support improved teaching, learning, and student achievement.

Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

Professional Capacity: Summarize the professional capacity trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	The team's review of professional capacity identified a strong commitment among staff to collaboration, professional growth, and supporting student success. Teachers have demonstrated a willingness to engage in professional learning, collaborate through department and common planning structures, and implement instructional strategies aligned with school and district priorities. These trends highlight the need for students to benefit from highly effective teachers who are supported in meeting diverse learning needs. Teachers need continued opportunities for meaningful collaboration, job-embedded professional learning, and instructional feedback. Leaders should continue building teacher leadership capacity, aligning professional learning with school improvement goals, and providing systems that support continuous growth and improvement.
Family and Community Engagement: Summarize the family and community engagement trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	The team's review of family and community engagement identified strong support and growing partnerships between the school, families, and community stakeholders. As students progress through high school, they assume greater independence and responsibility, resulting in less direct family involvement in daily academic support. However, strong communication and partnerships remain essential to student success, engagement, and postsecondary readiness. The team identified the continued need to provide meaningful opportunities for families to stay informed, provide feedback, and support students while empowering students to take ownership of their educational journey. Continued focus on collaboration, transparency, and community engagement will strengthen these partnerships.
Supportive Learning Environment: Summarize the supportive learning environment trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	The team's review of the supportive learning environment identified consistent expectations, clear procedures, and a strong focus on maintaining a positive and safe school culture. LHS continues to utilize comprehensive student and faculty handbooks to establish common expectations and promote student responsibility. The team also recognized the efforts of the PBIS team, Community Resource Coordinators, and staff to expand supports that address the academic, social, and emotional needs of students. The team identified a continued need to strengthen systems that support the whole student, including college and career readiness, attendance, engagement, and access to resources. These trends highlight the need for students to have consistent support, teachers to have resources and strategies to meet diverse needs, and leaders to continue developing programs and partnerships that promote student success.

Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

Demographic and Financial: Summarize the demographic and financial trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	The team's review of demographic and financial trends identified that while many schools in Walton County receive Title I funding, Loganville High School does not qualify and therefore does not receive additional enhancement funds for enrichment programs. As a result, LHS must continue to strategically allocate resources and leverage partnerships to provide opportunities and supports that meet student needs. These trends highlight the importance of effective resource management, targeted support systems, and continued collaboration with community partners to enhance student success.

Student Achievement: Summarize the student achievement trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	The team's review of student achievement trends identified areas of continued success and opportunities for growth. Algebra performance has consistently remained strong, and AP participation and exam pass rates continue to increase and exceed state averages. Biology and U.S. History scores remain above the state average but have not yet met school expectations, creating an opportunity for targeted improvement. Literacy II results are not yet available and will require additional analysis once released. These trends highlight the need for continued focus on rigorous instruction, data-driven support, and targeted strategies to improve student outcomes. Teachers need ongoing support in analyzing data and strengthening instruction, while leaders should continue aligning resources and professional learning to identified areas of need.
