

Hello!

My name is Wanda Cooper-Jones. I am Ahmaud's mother and the Founder and CEO of the Ahmaud Arbery Foundation.

We are officially less than two weeks away from the application deadline for Cohort 2 of our Youth Leadership Program, and I would love your help making sure this opportunity reaches as many young men as possible.

We are looking for 10th and 11th grade young men across Metro Atlanta who are ready to grow as leaders, serve their communities, and begin preparing for life after high school. Because Ahmaud loved to run, we give priority consideration to cross country and track athletes, but all eligible young men are encouraged to apply.

Most importantly, the program is completely FREE for every scholar and family. Our young men have opportunities to learn about leadership, social justice, career readiness, community service, and so much more.

After losing Ahmaud, I knew I wanted to find a way to build hope out of tragedy. When I see the young men in this program, I see so much possibility. Investing in them is one of the ways we continue Ahmaud's legacy and help the next generation become everything they are capable of becoming.
