Crack of a Bat

By Cole Kudiak

The 2025-2026 academic year is coming to a close, and with that comes the end of spring sports. The Lakeview Sailors field both a softball and baseball program.

Both teams gave it their all and displayed what it means to be a Sailor. Our softball program showed signs of progress in a year built for the future. The team was led by four seniors, Taylor Booher, Sadie Gordon, Gracie Harbaugh and Jayleigh Mathieson.

Reflecting on the season, Booher said, "It was a good experience to have my senior year!"

One bright spot for the team was the season-defining, dramatic walk-off winner against Eisenhower. Tied 7-7 late, before Freshman, Peyton Sere day sealed the game with a single. We wish our Lady Sailors seniors the best of luck in their future endeavors.

For the baseball program, it was a year of change. Once more, four seniors headed the charge: Lucas Fagley, Maddox Meyer, Parker Montgomery and Owen Reynolds. Montgomery said, "We had a good season; it was more of a learning year to get ready for the next generation."

The Sailors fought with all their might every night. On May 7, Montgomery reached 100 career strikeouts, cementing his place in program history as one of the greats. We wish our seniors good luck as three will compete at the next level: Fagley at Allegheny College in Meadville, Montgomery at Grove City College, and Reynolds at Thiel College in Greenville.

Victory Lap

With the school year coming to a close, so too does Track and Field 2026. Both the Boys and Girls teams this year saw some huge success. The Girls finished the year with an undefeated 17-0 record, as well as the region title. The boys team just barely lost out on the region title to Wilmington.

Some notable additions were made to Lakeview's all-time record lists, highlighted by James Alexander's school record 4:26.24 1600 meter run. He also grabbed second all-time in the 800 and 3200 with 1:55.94 and 9:54 respectively. Some other notable drops on the all-time lists were Malachi Phillips sophomore record in the 1600 with a 4:42, Sara Williams in Long and Triple Jump, Cole Boswersox in Javelin, Seth Phillips in the 3200, Ella Thiec in the 1600 and 3200, Austin Haines in the 400, Jake Birkner in Discus, and Kendall Emmert in the 100 and 300 meter hurdles.

There were also plenty of new additions to the list like Jayden Meier's pole vault of 10-6 making him tied second for all-time freshmen, Ethan Johnson in Javelin, Anderson Kaltenbaugh in the 3200, Julian Zacheral in the 100, and Aliana Montgomery and Amelia Cumpston together in the 3200.

At the District meet held at Slippery Rock University, several athletes earned themselves a district medal in one of the toughest district meets in history. The girls medalists included the 4x800 in fifth and the 4x100 in seventh. On the boys end, the medalists were the 4x400 in fifth, Seth Phillips' fifth in the 3200, Cole Bowersox fourth in Javelin, Jake Birkner seventh in discus, and the 4x800 finished third and punched their ticket to the state championships, where they were seeded 15th in the state, and finally James Alexander finished second in the 800. Overall, both teams had very productive years and are sad to see the seniors go.

Lakeview's Lucas Fagley Reaches 1,000 Career Points

By Austin Haines

Lakeview High School basketball player Lucas Fagley reached a major milestone this season by scoring his 1,000th career point. He achieved the accomplishment during a game at Wilmington High School, adding his name to an impressive group of Lakeview athletes.

Fagley has been a key player for Lakeview since the beginning of his high school career. He earned a spot on the varsity team as a freshman and has been a standout player ever since. Throughout his four years, he has consistently helped lead his team with strong scoring performances, and played a major role in helping Lakeview win the District 10 Championship in 2025.

Not only did he reach 1,000 career points, but Fagley went on to become the boys basketball program's all-time leading scorer, breaking the previous record held by James Charlton for 24 years. When asked about his record, Lucas said, "This just means everything. This is what you look forward to when you're young and what you aspire to be. This is a credit to my family, my coaches and my teammates for pushing me to the man I am today."

As his high school basketball career comes to an end, Fagley's accomplishment will live on as a highlight of Lakeview's sports programs. He plans to continue his education at Allegheny College, where he will be playing baseball.

As the 2025-2026 school year rounds to a close, we look at our graduating seniors, and we especially would like to recognize the top 15 as they have worked through four years of academic excellence here at Lakeview High School. Both excelling in the classroom, in sports, or outside of school entirely, these individuals have put time and effort into actively making themselves into their best. This article recognizes these high achieving students.

The first student who made their way into the top 15 is JAMES ALEXANDER. Alexander was involved in lots during his high school years including Cross Country, Track, Student Council, LEO Club, National Honor Society, and he is the class president. His future plans consist of attending Walsh University to pursue a degree in Finance, while competing on their Track and Cross Country teams. Alexander has chosen this path because his father works in the finance field, and he would like to follow in his footsteps. The people that Alexander appreciates the most in his life are his parents.

When asked who built him up as a person, he responded with, "My coach Logan Hogue, my parents, and my sisters." Alexander said that the best non-academic thing that he has learned is the value in taking something away from the class that isn't in the syllabus. The biggest challenge that he faced during his high school years would be learning how to lock in when he needed to. "I finally just locked in," Alexander said.

The teachers who had the most significant impact on him are Mr. McGinnis and Mr. Bartlett. James said, "I could take something away from their classes apart from the material itself, such as study methods and critical thinking."

TAYOR BOOHER is one of the many accomplished students who made it into the top 15 of the senior class. She did this through years of hard work and dedication through all four years. Other than her classes, she is involved in Student Council, Students For Charity, National Honor Society, Softball, and is Theatre president. Her plans after high school are to go on to Slippery Rock University and obtain her Masters in Psychology. She chose this path because she believes understanding psychology is really important in our lives. It also can help greatly with people's mental health. The people that Booher appreciates the most in her life are her parents, due to always being there for me and supporting everything she decides to do. Booher believes that her sister had the biggest impact on who she has become. Her reasoning is that they had always stuck by her side and that they call her out when she is wrong.

One non-academic thing that she has learned is how to be herself. The biggest challenge that Booher has faced in high school is staying on top of her school work. For her it has become harder as she heads closer to graduating. Booher has overcome this by reminding herself daily of the feeling of getting good grades and disciplining herself.

The teacher who had the most impact on Booher's desire to learn and personal growth was Mrs. Baun. She picked Mrs. Baun because she is one of the most caring teachers she has ever had. Booher said, "She cares deeply about our learning and ensures we feel comfortable enough to come to her about anything we need!"

KENDALL EMMERT is the next student at Lakeview to have gotten the achievement of making it onto the top 15 of the senior class. Emmert has had a very full plate through her years of high school. Her school activities include, Student Council, Women's Club, National Honor Society, Varsity Volleyball, Track, Cross Country, Football Cheer and Competition Cheer.

Outside of school Emmert also excels at All-star cheerleading, where she has cheered at Fire and Ice as well as Steel Cats. Emmert plans to continue her cheerleading career at Slippery Rock University, as well as majoring in Early Childhood Education and minoring in Special Education. With this degree, she plans to become an elementary school teacher. Kendall has chosen this path because she had always wanted to be a teacher, loves working with kids, and also loves cheering.

Throughout her years at Lakeview, she feels that the course that has had the most impact on her is Precalculus. Emmert chose this course because it was the most challenging class she has ever taken, and it challenged her a lot. She said, "I had to put my mind to it, and even though it was hard, it made me realize that I can do hard things in my life."

Something non-academic that she learned was how to push through struggles and obstacles, and that if she truly put her mind to something, she can accomplish it. Just because it is hard doesn't mean you can't do it. She used this mentality to get over the challenge of getting out of her head during sports. She learned that she just needed to stop stressing ing herself out and just play and run for the fun of it.

Emmert said, "getting in my head will always be the biggest challenge I have faced, but once I overcame it, I saw everything from a different perspective."

The person Emmert appreciates most in life are her parents. They have always been there for her during all of her ups and downs, and never missed any sporting event. Her parents always make her feel so loved and would be lost without them. As Emmert has gone through high school, she feels that the person who has built her up as a person is her mom. She said, "She believes in me more than I do in myself. She encourages me and always supports me no matter what I am doing."

Another student who has gotten the accomplishment of being a part of the top 15 in the class of 2026 is LUCAS FAGLEY. While at Lakeview he has been a part of Baseball, Basketball, Golf and National Honor Society. Outside of school and sports, he enjoys hunting and fishing. In the fall Lucas plans to continue his education at Allegheny College and study Biology. While at school, he also wants to continue his career in baseball. Fagley chose this path because he has always dreamed of playing a collegiate sport, and that he also gets into a good career for his future self through Biology. Throughout Fagley's life, he finds himself to appreciate his family most in life, which consists of his mom, dad, three brothers, and his sister. He feels that the people who have built himself up most as a person have been his parents.

One thing that Lucas did not learn in the classroom is to just trust the process, and that there is always a plan for you. One way that he might have learned this lesson is through his biggest challenge in high school, which is his injuries senior year. Fagley overcame these obstacles not by himself, but through the help of others. Fagley said, "They have helped engrave that I had a plan in place for myself and that I am more than strong enough to overcome these injuries and become a better person." And lastly, a secret that Mr. Fagley wants to get off his chest before he graduates is that he never put the lock on his locker.

AUSTIN HAINES is one of the multiple students in the senior class to earn a spot in the top 15. A teacher who impacted significantly was Mr. Steiger. His Precalculus class was described as challenging yet rewarding to the high difficulty of the class. Haines was a member of the Track team, Basketball team as a captain, LEO Club, Student Council, National Honor Society, Cochranon Community Church Youth Group and Cochranon Community Church Worship Team. He plans to attend Slippery Rock University to obtain a degree in Early Childhood Education.

He is going into this occupation because of his passion for teaching younger students while providing them with a positive male role model. The schedule for teachers allows him to have summers off and take that time to travel.

A time in his high school career where he was challenged was when tearing his hamstring and learning to be thankful for his talents and seeing the support of his teammates. A person who helped him accomplish all he's done was his grandma, and the people he is most appreciative of are his parents. Finally, the best non-academic skill he got out of high school was learning to dunk.

RACHEL HOOVLER is a high achieving student in the class of 2026. Hoovler is involved in Marching Band, Concert Band, Pep Band, Jazz Band, where she holds the role as Drum Major, Concert Choir, Chamber Choir, and Show Choir, where she is the president. She is the Secretary of Speech and Debate, Secretary of Students for Charity, Treasurer of International Club, member of Lakeview Musical Productions, National Honor Society, National Society of High School Scholars, Penn Ohio Youth Actors Playhouse, Mercer Community Band, and a paid/volunteer Piano Accompanist at Local Churches.

Hoovler's future plans are to attend Kent State University to earn her Bachelor's in Music Education, and hopes to become a general elementary music teacher. She chose this path, because she aspires to be a music educator, since she looks forward to sharing her passion for music, supporting the arts, and, most importantly, making a positive impact on her students' education. She is so excited to become the best musician, teacher, and person that she can be.

Hoovler's family is who she appreciates most in her life, because they always support her and are there for her when she needs it. Hoovler is so grateful to have remarkable teachers, the most supportive parents, the best sister and friend, and also been surrounded by extraordinary musicians— who all made her the person that she is today.

A secret that Hoovler would like to get off of her chest is that she's never filled out a digital pass before just walking into the hallway.

The best non-academic thing that Hoovler has learned is that if you want something in life, you have to do something about it. The biggest challenge that Hoovler faced during her high school years was pursuing music from a small, rural school with limited musical opportunities and support. She has learned from her experiences to step out of her comfort zone, not to be afraid to try new things or to be "the only one," work incredibly hard, and always be determined.

Class of 2026's Top 15

QUINTON MARTIN is the next student included in the top 15. Martin was involved in National Honor Society and International Club. His future plans are to attend Slippery Rock University to study Mechanical Engineering. Martin chose his path due to his high level of skill and enjoyment of the subject math.

Martin said that his parents built him up throughout high school and that they are the people he appreciates most in life.

Something he has learned throughout his high school years was patience. His biggest challenge he faced was taking the high level chemistry class. This class taught him, "It's okay not to do well, as long as everyone is not doing well either."

A teacher who inspired him and had a significant impact on him was Mrs. Shearer because geometry was the first class she was able to see the applications of math.

Another student who put lots of time and dedication to get to the top 15 is LEIGHA MARSTELLER. Marsteller was involved in numerous activities during her high school years. These include Basketball, Volleyball, Women's Club, Student Council and Skills USA. Marsteller's future plans are that she is going to attend Penn State Behrend to pursue a bachelor's degree in Nursing, while also playing on the Basketball Team. She plans to go back to school to get her masters so she can become a certified nurse practitioner or nurse anesthesiologist. She chose this path because she loves to help people, and she really enjoys learning about anatomy.

The people who Marsteller appreciates the most in her life are her mom, dad, siblings and her best friends Addison, Kendall, Denna, Jayleigh and Rachell.

She said that the one person that has built her up the most in her life is her mom. The best non-academic thing that Marsteller has learned is how to get to the snack shack every class. The hardest thing that Marsteller had to face and overcome was trying to balance school, sports and a job.

She did this by learning time management. When Marsteller was asked what teacher had the most significant impact on her, she said, "Mr. Minch because he always helped me with scholarships."

PARKER MONTGOMERY is another student who worked hard so he could secure a spot in the top 15. Montgomery was involved in many activities inside and outside of school. Montgomery was a part of Baseball, Basketball, Golf, NHS and the Athletic Club inside of school. Outside of school he participated in Creekside baseball, hunting and playing music.

Montgomery's future plans are to attend Grove City College to study something history related. He is also going to continue playing baseball in college. "I have always thought that Grove City has a beautiful campus, and my dad works there, so I have free tuition. I can play baseball there and study something that sparks my interest," Montgomery said.

He said that the people he appreciates most in his life are his parents. "They do everything for me; I would be nobody without them," said Montgomery. He explains that his mother and father have built him up as a person.

A secret that Montgomery wants to get off of his chest before he graduates is that he has never, ever put a lock on his locker. The best non-academic thing that Montgomery has learned to do is play chess.

Montgomery said that the most challenging thing he has had to face was when he lost his Aunt and his Grandma all in the span of two months his freshman year. Because of this, he learned that you need to involve yourself with friends, sports, and family, and really appreciate all of them.

The course that had the most significant impact on him was anatomy with Mr. Fagley. "It is one of the only classes that I have had to devote outside time to. It has allowed me to grow because I have had to relearn what it takes to excel in hard classes," Montgomery said.

MASON MULLEN is one of the hardworking students who earned his way into the top 15 in the class. Mullen was involved in many sports throughout his high school career. These sports include Baseball, Basketball and Football. In his free time he also enjoyed farming and hunting, and these were what he did outside of school. The activity that he enjoyed the most inside of school though was basketball. He still loves to play this sport for fun when he has the chance. Mullen's future plans are that he would like to join the steamfitter union and work for them.

He also wants to continue farming and working with animals. He said that he has chosen this path because he loves to do it, and they make pretty good money.

The people who Mullen appreciates most in his life are his mom and dad. "They have helped shape me and guide me into the person I am today," Mullen said. He also says that his entire family and his best friends have built him up the most in his life and have taught him so many skills.

The best non-academic thing that Mullen has learned is welding because it opened his eyes to the field. Mullen said that the hardest challenge he has had to face is going to school in the spring, because he hates to sit in school at that time of the year.

Finally, Mullen was asked which teacher had the most significant impact on you. "Mr. Friters has taught me a lot, and we have created a good friendship. He is a good guy, and I love to be in his class," Mullen said.

JUDAH PHILLIPS is the Valedictorian for the class of 2026. Phillips was involved in Cross Country, Track and Field, Envirothon, Student Council, National Honor Society, Students for Charity and Fishing Club. He is also a member of Redeemer Anglican Church and the North East Ohio XC Camp. Phillips' future plans are to attend the University of Notre Dame to major in Environmental Science and eventually pursue a job as a professor in the subject. He hopes to work at a major research institution and make a difference in the world of Environmental Science. He has chosen this path because he has always been passionate about the Environmental Sciences, and realized that he had a desire to make a difference in our world, and has found a great interest in social and environmental science.

There are a lot of people in Phillips' life who are important to him and who he is today, but he is most appreciative of his family and the impact they have made on his life. Along with that, Phillips' parents have had the greatest impact on his life and for who he sees himself as in the future.

The secret that Phillips would like to get off of his chest is that all of senior year he never used the locker that he was assigned, because he didn't like the location of his original one.

The best non-academic thing that Phillips has learned is how to be comfortable with living uncomfortably through sports and outdoor activities.

The biggest challenge Phillips faced during his high school years was dealing with a lack of courses offered and an inability to get all of the classes that he would need to get into college, where he had to make efforts each year to get all of the things that he needed. Through this, he was able to learn never to take anything for granted—especially those things that are necessary to succeed—and not to give up when things get hard.

The teacher who had the most significant impact on Phillips' life was Mr. McGinnis and his CHS Advanced Biology class, because it showed him that he was interested in the sciences at an advanced level, and he pointed Phillips towards the field of Environmental Sciences and inspired him to pursue a career there.

SETH PHILLIPS is an exceptional student in the class of 2026 who earned a spot in the top 15. Throughout his high school career, Phillips was involved in a variety of activities including Cross Country, Track and Field, Students for Charity, Student Council, National Honor Society and Envirothon. Phillips' future plans are to attend Edinboro

Class of 2026's Top 15

University to major in Secondary Education with a focus in General Science, while also running Division II Track and Cross Country. He chose this path because he believes it is the best fit for his career goals and allows him to continue his athletics.

The people Phillips appreciates the most in his life are his family, and he also said they are the ones who built him into the person he is today.

A secret that Phillips wants to get off his chest before graduating is that he kept a stash of water in a fridge in Mr. McGinnis' room for two years, along with a trove of snacks hidden in an unused locker.

The best non-academic thing Phillips has learned is how to tie his shoes. The biggest challenge Phillips faced during high school was getting through difficult classes, and through that experience he learned the value of taking harder classes over the easier options.

When asked which teacher and course had the most significant impact on him, Phillips said Mr. McGinnis and his CHS Biology class because it taught him how to study effectively and helped him to appreciate learning more difficult material.

ADDISON RAYMOND is another accomplished senior in the top 15 for her academics. She was a member of the Volleyball Team, Sideline and Competition Cheer as a captain, Young Life and National Honor Society.

Raymond said that Mrs. Uber was a teacher who had the biggest impact on her because of Uber's extreme kindness, passion, and always wanting the best for her students.

After graduating she plans to attend Grove City College to study Finance and use this degree to become a financial planner.

She chose this path so she can work with clients and help them plan for their future while obtaining a steady income.

The people she appreciates most are her parents because they showed her that hard work pays off and nothing is just handed to you.

When asked about a person who built her up, she chose her sister Emmy. She said Emmy stuck by her side through high school and always told her the truth no matter how harsh it was.

The best non-academic thing she learned was that being on time is overrated.

The biggest challenge she faced in high school was navigating through her junior year when her mom became sick while taking multiple advanced classes. This led her closer to God and showed her how hard work pays off.

DENNA SOMMERS is the Salutatorian for the class of 2026. She was involved in Cross Country, Basketball and Young Life. Sommers is also the President of Student Council, President of LEO Club, and a member of National Honor Society and Envirothon.

Her future plans are to attend South College Pittsburgh and earn a degree in Diagnostic Medical Sonography.

Sommers has chosen this path because she has always wanted a career in the medical field and wants to help people and make a positive impact in everyone's lives.

Sommers appreciates her family the most in her life. Her family supports her in everything she does, especially her mother and grandmothers. She wouldn't be who she is today without them.

The best non-academic thing that Sommers has learned through her high school career is never to doubt herself and always trust in God.

The biggest challenge that Sommers faced during her high school career was managing school work, sports and work. By overcoming these challenges, she learned that anyone can accomplish what they want when they set their minds to it, but also to give yourself grace and rest when you need it.

Class of 2026's Top 15

The teacher who had the most significant impact on Sommers' desire to learn was Mrs. Phillips because she showed her how to have fun and find joy in doing the things you love. She was also always such a light in Sommers' life and pushed her to be her best.

AUTUMN TINGLEY was also an outstanding student in the top 15.

She was a part of Theatre, Speech and Debate, Envirothon, Knitting and Crafting Club, FOR Club, Track and Field, Football and Wrestling.

Tingley plans to attend Champlain University for Environmental Science with a concentration in Conservation Science, while competing on the Women's Wrestling Team.

She is taking this path due to the fact that she loves animals and nature and sees the importance of saving them. The people she appreciates most are her parents and her siblings who built her up.

The best non-academic thing she learned was that failure isn't defined by not succeeding but giving up.

Tingley's biggest challenge she had to overcome was how to be comfortable and happy with herself.

ADVICE TO UNDERCLASSMEN:

James Alexander - If your goals don't scare you, you aren't going big enough.

Jake Birkner - Always remember you have the same 24 hours in a day; it's how you use them that counts.

Taylor Booher - Never be afraid to try something even if it seems "weird." You'll find the people who support you most that way.

Cole Bowersox - Lock in.

Finley Burns - Be nice to the handicapped kids!

Kyrie Clark - To please be yourself. The people who stick around and accept you for who you are are the ones you want to keep close.

Kendall Emmert - Enjoy every moment, and don't be afraid to step out of your comfort zone. Also, don't take Advanced Biology and Precalculus at the same time.

Lucas Fagley - Don't take your time for granted; it goes by fast.

Grace Gander - Find the people who make you love yourself. They just might change your life.

Lily Gibson - Do the things that make YOU happy, not everyone else happy.

Sadie Gordon - Make all the memories. Don't worry about what anyone has to say or think. Have as much fun as possible! Listen and get the school years over with.

Austin Haines - Get involved in at least one sport or club during high school. It gives you something to be committed to and work for while also helping you build close friendships.

Ryker Harold - Don't wait to try in school until your junior year like I did. It's not that hard; just put in the effort all four years.

Makayla Harper - Do all you can through high school because you only live once.

Lydia Hill - You never have to follow the pack; there is always a black sheep in a herd for a reason.

Rachel Hoovler - Don't be afraid to make mistakes; that's how we become better people :)

Brooklyn Jones - Never give up even if times are hard.

Gary Keeley - Take everything one day at a time.

Rachell Keeley - Do all sports, all activities, everything you can. And do your questions right after your job shadow.

Carys Klonowski - Always be kind because you don't know what someone else is going through.

Cole Klonowski - Talk to everybody. Don't just talk to the people you already know.

Aubrey Krupa - Don't rush the time you have.

Greg Leige - AI doesn't work very well.

Eric Lutz - Don't screw up.

Leigha Marsteller - Don't take chem.

Quinton Martin - Take the hardest classes in the subject you enjoy.

Jayleigh Mathieson - Life's too short! Have fun and

Seniors' Advice and Future Plans experience everything you want in life while you can. Live life to its fullest so you never regret not doing something.

Delainee McCartney-Snyder - Don't get behind.

Roman Mittelmeier - Get your graduation project done as soon as possible.

Parker Montgomery - Do the hard things and put in the extra work; it will all pay off.

Ellianna Morris - Live your life to the fullest; you only live one.

Mason Mullen - It goes fast, so enjoy it.

Judah Phillips - Find that one thing that you actually care about and lean into it with everything you have. Actually do something about it -- don't just say that change needs to happen, actually stand up and make yourself uncomfortable fighting for what you believe in, and in doing so, you will make everyone else uncomfortable enough to change the way they do things.

Seth Phillips - Don't be afraid to take the hard classes; it's better to struggle in a difficult course than to excel in the easy classes.

Addison Raymond - Do everything because this is the only time in your life to do so.

Owen Reynolds - Make sure you can handle your schedules for each year.

Logan Richards - Pass your classes first try.

Raychel Sealand - We do not drive on the left side of the road, so we don't walk down the hallway on the left side either. God has a plan for all of you, so just keep your head up and keep moving forward.

Denna Sommers - Always be kind and spread love.

Autumn Tingley - Don't forget that most of the time you can learn more from failing than succeeding.

Keaten Urey - Try to stay out of trouble.

Dameon Waters - Don't wait last minute for your graduation stuff.

Isabelle Wilcox - Stay out of as much drama as you can

Julian Zacherl - Enjoy it; it goes by faster than you realize.

Brooke Moderski - Don't quit; it gets easier.
