5 Reasons to Join a High School Club or Organization

Skill development

Clubs and organizations are a great way to help develop your character and the skills that will benefit you in school, your career and in life. Skills like commitment, leadership, effective communication, and being able to work successfully in a group all come from participating in a club or organization.

Making friends

Fitting in isn't as natural for some as it is for others. That's okay. We all socialize differently. Joining a club or organization is an easy way to meet people who have the same interests as you. What better way to spark a new friendship than to talk about something you know you both already enjoy? Because of the similar interests, you'll feel more comfortable to really be yourself!

Networking

This word may not have crossed your radar yet, but if it hasn't, get acquainted. Your network is a group of people you are connected to for various reasons. When you make a new academic, personal or professional connection with someone or start a new relationship we call it networking. If you're looking for new opportunities, a job, a recommendation, a favor or anything along those lines, the people in your network can help you.

You never know how the people you meet today can help you tomorrow. Joining a club or organization can give you access to new networking opportunities that you should definitely take advantage of when needed!

College admissions

When it comes to college applications, admissions boards like to see students who are diverse in their interests both inside and outside of the classroom. No high school club or organization is better than the other, so choose something that truly ignites your passion. What's important is that you can demonstrate commitment to a cause, group, or interest; and how your impact helped it grow.

That doesn't mean you should run off and join every student organization at your high school. Involvement and achievement with one or two solid clubs or organizations are enough to show college admissions boards how well rounded you are.

Build your resume

Resume may be another foreign term to you but the important thing to know is that you will need a resume to land a job or an internship! In short, a resume is a brief document that lists your education history, experience, skills and other attributes that make you the perfect candidate for the job you're pursuing. If you've never had a job before, a good way to show experience is to join a club or organization and use your involvement as proof of proficiency.

If you do have job experience, having a high school club or student organization on your resume can be useful to show a future employer what you're involved in outside of work that supports or increases efficiency in your role.

The Self-Love Era Club

The Self Love Club is a safe, uplifting space to reconnect with yourself, celebrate who you are, and grow into the best version of yourself. Through meaningful conversations, confidence-building activities, wellness, reflection,and community, we’re learning to prioritize ourselves without guilt and embrace self-love in every season.
