Narrative description of the Prop 28 arts education program(s) funded:

Santa Rosa City Schools is committed to offering robust Visual and Performing Arts programs at the secondary level district wide. The passage of Proposition 28 has allowed school sites to expand programs by increasing arts staffing and purchasing new supplies.

To ensure the funds are used effectively, site leaders received explicit guidance on state mandates: at least 80% must go toward hiring certificated or classified arts staff, while up to 20% can be used for professional development, supplies, materials, and external community partnerships. Principals were also given a structured planning tool to collect community feedback, audit existing arts offerings, and target areas for growth.

Prop 28 funds directly enhanced campus programs by supplying new materials, expanding course offerings, and providing additional instruments to meet student demand. Schools purchased Mariachi uniforms, funded software licenses for graphic design and photography, and secured performance rights that were previously out of reach. Funding also covered after school practice time for musical, dance, and theatre productions.
