Dodge County – GeoPermits Online Permitting – FAQ

What is GeoPermits?

GeoPermits is a new online permitting website that can be used to apply for permits within Dodge County.

How do I access GeoPermits?

Please use the following link to access GeoPermits: Dodge County GeoPermits
(If unable to access the link; please search for “Dodge County WI – GeoPermits” in your online browser)

How will I know the status of my permit?

Each permit will be linked to a user (who is the applicant) who must have a valid email address to create an account. Email updates regarding permits will be sent through the GeoPermits system to your email address.

Do I need to fill out a paper application for a permit and upload it into GeoPermits?

No paper application is required as the information needed will be collected as the applicant completes the permit. An auto-generated PDF will populate with the information provided by the applicant.

How do I pay for a permit?

Our department accepts cash, check, or credit cards as acceptable forms of payment. To pay for a GeoPermits application, you can either pay through the online portal on the website (users will receive an email prompting payment) or visit the department to pay with cash or check. There is an additional convenience fee that will be charged if the user pays with credit card.

{Contractors} – Can I apply for a permit on a parcel that I do not own?

Yes, GeoPermits users can apply for permits on parcels which they do not own. All permits will ask if the applicant is the property owner. Please click “no” and the system will prompt the applicant to fill out their own contact information. Our department commonly has contractors apply for permits to conduct work for clients.
