Veterans Day Marked with Gratitude

By Claire Williams, Editor-in-Chief

The Wright City R-II School District and community came together on Veterans Day in a touching show of gratitude and unity, honoring the men and women who have served in the U.S. Armed Forces. The event brought students, staff and families together to reflect on the sacrifices made in the name of freedom and service.

Students played a meaningful role in the celebration. They created thoughtful crafts, performed music, presented the colors with pride and delivered speeches that expressed deep appreciation for the nation's veterans.

Staff members also contributed to the success of the event by helping organize, perform, speak and support the program behind the scenes. Their efforts helped create a respectful and memorable experience for everyone involved.

The observance served as a powerful reminder of what makes the Wright City R-II School District and community special. By coming together with pride and thankfulness for those who have served, the district honored veterans while encouraging students to carry forward a spirit of respect and service.

See pages 4 and 5 for photos of Veterans Day.

A Midyear Message from Dr. Salvo

Celebrating Progress and Looking Ahead

As we wrap up the fall semester, I want to take a moment to celebrate the hard work, dedication, and growth we've seen across our schools. Our students continue to show determination in the classroom and beyond, our staff remains committed to providing engaging learning experiences, and our families have shown incredible support to our students' success along the way.

Looking ahead to the spring semester, we're excited to continue building on that progress. New opportunities, programs, and experiences await our students, and I have no doubt we'll meet every challenge with the same teamwork and optimism that define our district. Thank you for your continued trust and partnership in helping every student, every day reach their potential - because #TogetherWeCan.

Wright City Blood Drive Collects 21 Life-Saving Donations

By Tiana Sims, Staff Writer

Wright City High School partnered with the American Red Cross earlier this month to host its annual blood drive, bringing students, staff and community volunteers together to make a life-saving impact.

Over the course of the event, volunteers helped collect 21 units of blood. Each unit has the potential to save up to three lives, helping trauma victims, cancer patients, newborns and others in urgent need of transfusions.

HOSA helped organize the drive, and volunteers assisted with check-ins, donor support and refreshments. Students age 16 and older were eligible to donate, while others helped with logistics throughout the six-hour event.

Senior Collin McMahan, who volunteered during the drive, reflected on a conversation that captured the spirit of the day.

"One of the first few people who came to donate, and I was talking after his donation, and he mentioned how he liked coming up here and donating," McMahan said. "It's only a few minutes, and he saves a life or two."

After donation, blood is transported to a Red Cross processing center where it is separated into red blood cells, plasma and platelets, then tested and stored for hospital use.

The turnout highlighted the strength of community support and the willingness of students to take action that benefits others beyond the school walls. In just one day, 21 donations became 21 chances to help save a life.

Wright City Athletes Shine Across Fall Sports

By Quinn Schnarre, Sports Editor

Nute Finishes Third at State Golf Tournament

Wright City junior Morgan Nute added another impressive accomplishment to her high school golf career, earning her third consecutive state medal with a third-place finish at the Class 2 state tournament on Oct. 21.

The two-day event, held at Meadow Lake Acres Country Club in New Bloomfield, challenged players with cold temperatures and wind speeds ranging from 20 to 30 mph. Despite the difficult conditions, Nute posted an 84 on the first day and followed up with an 82 in the final round, finishing with a total score of 166.

Her performance secured a spot among the top three in the state and added to an already strong résumé. Over three seasons, Nute has earned two third-place state finishes, a fourth-place medal, and two district titles.

Competing in unpredictable weather tested every player, but Nute adapted her strategy and stayed focused to finish strong. She closed round two with five pars on the back nine and a birdie on the final hole. The impressive finish helped solidify her place on the podium.

With another medal now part of her record, Nute continues to establish herself as one of the top high school golfers in Missouri.

Football Athletes Earn All-Conference and All-Metro Honors

Wright City football closed its season with widespread recognition, as 13 players earned Eastern Missouri Conference honors and three were selected to All-Metro teams by the St. Louis Metro Football Coaches Association. Ayden Dile, Grant Lehmen, Quinn Schnarre, Terrence Love, Nate Turner, Kaleb McCory and Kaveon Schulte were named to the EMO First Team for their performances on offense, defense and special teams. Second-team selections included Ben Gomez, Dayton Humphreys at both quarterback and punter, Jayden Henke, Kaiden Pilcher and Omar Ghannoum.

Three Wildcats earned regional honors. Dile was named First Team All-Metro as an offensive lineman, and Schnarre earned First Team All-Metro recognition at linebacker. Love was selected Second Team All-Metro as a defensive back.

The postseason awards highlight the depth and balance of Wright City's roster, reflecting the program's continued growth and strong individual performances throughout the year.

Volleyball Captures First Conference Championship Since 1982

The Wright City volleyball team completed one of the program's most significant seasons in more than four decades, winning the Eastern Missouri Conference championship for the first time since 1982. The Wildcats finished with a 15-10-2 record, improving dramatically from last season's 3-21-1 campaign.

Wright City secured the title with a three-set sweep of Bowling Green on Oct. 16, completing a 6-2 conference run that included two wins each over Bowling Green, Montgomery County and North Callaway. The Wildcats shared the championship in a three-way tie with Centralia and North Callaway.

Several players received postseason honors. Marli Burkhardt earned First Team All-Conference and First Team All-District recognition. Jaiden Walch was named First Team All-Conference and District Honorable Mention after leading the team in kills, blocks and digs. Emerson Wendt earned Second Team All-Conference and Second Team All-District honors.

The junior varsity squad also delivered a strong year, finishing 11-2 and contributing to a renewed foundation for the program.

Ferrell Returns to State Meet as Girls Cross Country Shows Progress

Wright City junior Ada Ferrell qualified for the Class 3 State Championships for the second straight season, leading the girls cross country team with consistent top-tier finishes. Ferrell placed 23rd at the district meet to advance and later finished 70th at the state level. She also claimed All-Conference honors with a fifth-place finish and took second at the Van-Far meet.

The girls team demonstrated continued improvement throughout the season. Liliana Wiedemeier and Meadow Jones each medaled at Wellsville and recorded significant time drops at Orchard Farm, with Wiedemeier improving by more than three minutes and Jones trimming more than a minute and a half from her early-season marks. Melissa Garcia posted her strongest performance of the year at Van-Far.

The team's overall progress was reflected in improved times across major meets and competitive showings throughout the fall.

Boys Cross Country Develops Young Core in Competitive Season

The Wright City boys cross country team saw major strides from its young roster, led by several freshmen who emerged as key contributors. Clayton Kennon, James Guinn and Zane Webster all finished among the top five freshmen at the Eastern Missouri Conference meet, marking one of the strongest youth performances in recent seasons.

Kennon broke the 20-minute barrier at Orchard Farm with a time of 19:48, and Guinn recorded a personal-best 19:18 while earning medals at multiple meets. Webster medaled at the Linn race, finishing seventh overall. Veteran runners also delivered season highlights, including personal-best performances from Frankie Zykan at Orchard Farm and Greg Hansen and Kaden Needham at Warrenton. Matthew Johnston and Guinn each medaled at Wellsville, while Landon O'Rando-Minardi and Mason Krueger consistently improved across every meet.

The Wildcats earned team victories over several programs, including Mark Twain, North Callaway, Silex, Knox County and multiple junior varsity squads from larger schools. The season showcased measurable growth and set the foundation for continued progress.

Softball Players Earn Postseason Honors at Conference, District, Regional and State Levels

Wright City softball wrapped up a successful season with multiple players earning postseason awards at the conference, district, regional and state levels.

In Eastern Missouri Conference selections, Ava Swaringen was named Second Team Outfielder, and Harper Martin earned Second Team Catcher honors.

At the Class 3 District level, Wright City had five players recognized. Lorelai Kellner and Sadie Sehnert were named First Team Infielders, Harper Martin was selected as First Team Catcher, and Ava Swaringen earned First Team Pitcher honors. Haley Elsenrath was recognized as a Second Team Outfielder.

The Wildcats also stood out in All-Region selections. Kellner and Martin earned First Team honors at infielder and catcher, respectively, while Swaringen was named Second Team Pitcher and Sehnert earned Second Team Infielder honors.

At the highest level, Wright City had two players receive All-State recognition. Harper Martin was named All-State Catcher, and Lorelai Kellner earned honors as an All-State Infielder, highlighting a standout season for the team.

Bullying Prevention Message Hits Home Through Megan Meier Foundation Visit

By Addie Ward, News Editor

Students at Wright City recently had the chance to attend a powerful presentation focused on bullying prevention, kindness and digital safety. The event, hosted by the Megan Meier Foundation, gave students and families a chance to reflect on how their actions, especially online, can affect others.

Tina Meier, the mother of Megan Meier, spoke to students during the school day and to parents later that evening. She shared her daughter's story and helped everyone understand the serious impact of cyberbullying. Her message encouraged students to think carefully about how they treat others both in person and through social media.

The student session focused on real-life situations that many teens face in the digital world. Students learned how something as small as a message or a comment can spread quickly and cause harm. The presentation gave students tools to help them make safer and kinder choices online.

In the evening, parents gathered for their own session where they received advice on how to support their children. The presentation included tips on how to talk about online safety, how to set healthy boundaries and how to stay connected with what students are experiencing on social media.

These presentations helped bring the Wright City community together with a shared goal of building a safer and more respectful environment for everyone. They reminded students that even small acts of kindness matter and that speaking up can make a real difference.

As the school year continues, the message from the Megan Meier Foundation will remain important. It showed that every student has a role in creating a positive and supportive school culture.

'Buckle Up, Phones Down' Signs Go Up to Promote Safer Driving Habits

By Brenna Plunkett, News Editor

Wright City High School recently joined a statewide effort to promote safer driving by installing new "Buckle Up, Phones Down" signs around campus. The initiative, backed by the Missouri Department of Transportation (MoDOT), encourages drivers—especially young ones—to wear seat belts and put away their phones when behind the wheel.

The signs, which are placed at the school's entrances and parking lot exits, serve as daily reminders to students and staff to prioritize safety both on and off school grounds.

"I think it's a good reminder because a lot of people get distracted when they're driving," said Olivia Wilson, a junior at Wright City High School. "Even a quick glance at your phone can be dangerous."

leading cause of death for Missourians aged 15 to 20. Many of those crashes involve drivers who were unbuckled or distracted by their phones. The "Buckle Up, Phones Down" campaign was launched to tackle both of these preventable behaviors at once.

By reinforcing this message with visible signage, students will make safer choices that extend beyond the school parking lot.

"The habits we build now as teen drivers are the ones we'll carry with us," Wilson added. "So it's important we start doing things the right way."

The campaign also aligns with school-wide safety initiatives. Wright City High School encourages all students to take the pledge to buckle up and put their phones down every time they drive.

WCHS Student Council Attends District Conference, Returns With New Ideas and Renewed Energy

By Janya Davis, Photo Editor

On Nov. 14, members of the Wright City High School Student Council attended the Northeast District Leadership Conference at Hickman High School in Columbia, joining student leaders from across the region for a day of workshops, collaboration and inspiration.

Following the event, the group returned with fresh ideas and a renewed focus on service, inclusivity and school culture.

"It was great to reconnect with people I've met through MASC," said Matthew Johnston, a junior and active Student Council member. "I always enjoy getting to see my friends again; they mean a lot to me."

Johnston and fellow junior Olivia Wilson have attended several Missouri Association of Student Councils (MASC) events in the past, and both agreed that the friendships formed through these conferences are lasting and meaningful. "MASC friends are some of the best friends I have ever had," Wilson said.

In addition to the relationships built, the conference also sparked a number of new initiatives that Student Council hopes to implement throughout the school year. Among them are efforts to make school dances more inclusive, so that all students feel welcome and represented. Council members are also exploring ways to expand support for the school's food pantry, increasing both donations and student involvement.

Looking ahead, Student Council is considering additional service projects inspired by the leadership sessions, including mental health awareness campaigns, spirit-building activities, and collaborations with other student organizations to strengthen schoolwide unity.
WCHS Student Council left the conference energized and motivated, with a commitment to creating positive change across campus.

Wildcat Musicians Shine in District Band and Choir Events

By Hailey Billham, Staff Writer

Wright City High School students are hitting all the right notes this season — both in band and choir. Several Wildcats earned honors in recent district-level music events, showcasing their talent, dedication and Wildcat pride.

Junior Ethan Evetts impressed judges at the District Jazz Band and Concert Band auditions held at Moberly High School. Evetts, a baritone saxophonist, was awarded 1st chair in the Honorable Mention Band and named an alternate for both the District Jazz Band and District Concert Band — a major accomplishment given the tough competition. Only two baritone saxophone players and one alternate are selected from across the district.

Evetts now qualifies to audition for the All-State Jazz Band and All-State Concert Band in December. He also performed at the District Band Concert hosted at Troy High School. Meanwhile, choir students Johann Uhl, Andrea Ramos Ramos, and Adelyn Juden were selected for the 9th/10th Grade District Choir after auditions held back in September. Each student prepared a solo and completed a sight-reading test to earn their spot.

On October 29, the trio traveled to Troy High School for a full day of rehearsals with fellow singers from around the region, culminating in a powerful concert performance that evening. A special congratulations goes to Johann Uhl, who was selected for a solo during the concert — a rare honor at this level.

Auditioning for district ensembles is no small feat. It takes hours of practice, confidence and a willingness to perform under pressure.

Whether performing solos or supporting their ensembles, these Wildcats continue to make Wright City proud with their musical achievements.

WCHS Sees Increase in Book Checkouts After New Phone Policy

By Tiana Sims, Staff Writer

Since the implementation of Missouri House Bill 68, which restricts phone usage in public schools during the school day, Wright City High School has experienced a noticeable increase in library book checkouts.

With personal devices now off-limits from first bell to dismissal, students are turning to alternative ways to spend their free time, and many are choosing to read.

According to school librarian Jamie Becker, book checkout rates have increased by 10 percent since the start of the school year.

“I love seeing students come into the library during passing periods and their free time to check out books,” Becker said. “It’s the highlight of my day.”

Freshmen have led the charge, checking out more than 191 books in just a few weeks. The Class of 2029’s most popular genres include manga and fiction, with the other grade levels following closely behind.

Manga, which are Japanese-style graphic novels, have become a top choice for many students. While not traditionally academic, Becker said these books offer students a creative outlet and a fun way to engage with reading.

“Even if it’s not a textbook, reading is reading,” she said. “Manga can still spark imagination and lead students to explore other types of literature.”

Fiction continues to be popular among all grade levels. It offers what many educators call “mirrors and windows.” Mirrors reflect a student’s own experiences, and windows provide insight into new perspectives, cultures and ideas. The increase in reading is being seen as a positive shift in school culture.

“It’s good to see students stepping away from their screens and finding something more meaningful to do with their time,” Becker added. “Reading builds empathy, vocabulary and critical thinking, all of which help them in and out of the classroom.”

As the school year continues, the Wright City library hopes to build on the momentum by promoting new titles, hosting reading challenges and helping students discover genres that interest them.

DECA Plans Fundraising and Prepares for District Competition

By Brenna Plunkett, News Editor

Wright City High School’s DECA chapter held its monthly club meeting on Nov. 5 after school, focusing on upcoming fundraising opportunities, budget planning, merchandise design and officer meetings scheduled later this month to keep ongoing projects on track.

DECA is an international organization that prepares emerging leaders and entrepreneurs in marketing, finance, hospitality and management. The club offers students hands-on experience in professional fields and helps them develop leadership, communication and critical thinking skills.

Members are currently preparing for the district competition on Feb. 10, where they will present research-based projects, participate in real-world roleplays and interview with professionals in the marketing industry. Top performers will advance to the state-level competition, gaining further experience and recognition.

To support these opportunities, DECA is planning several fundraising efforts aimed at increasing engagement and strengthening the club’s presence within the community. Members have started discussing possible partnerships with local businesses as well as item sales to raise funds for travel, materials and competition fees.

Additional officer meetings are scheduled throughout the month to finalize planning details and maintain momentum as the district event approaches.

Students, Staff Come Together for Unified Champion Friendsgiving

By Riley Rapa, Staff Writer

Students and staff at Wright City High School gathered before Thanksgiving break for the Unified Champion Friendsgiving, a heartwarming event that brings people together to share food, friendship and fun.

The event, organized as part of the school's participation in the Special Olympics Unified Champion Schools program, invited students of all abilities to enjoy a festive meal, play games and build connections in a welcoming environment.

"The food was amazing, and it was such a fun time just getting to hang out and talk with everyone," said Marli Burkhardt, a junior and Unified Champion volunteer. "It's really cool to see how something as simple as a meal can bring people together."

During the Friendsgiving celebration, participants played interactive games, shared laughs and helped serve food to one another. The atmosphere was filled with smiles, music and moments of genuine connection.

The Unified Champion Schools program focuses on inclusion, promoting respect and meaningful involvement for students with and without intellectual disabilities. Events like Friendsgiving highlight the power of inclusive school communities.

"This is what Unified is all about," Burkhardt added. "It's not just one event—it's a movement that reminds us we're better when we support and include each other."

With the success of Friendsgiving, students and staff are already looking forward to future Unified events in the new year.

EdRising Attends Leadership Conference at Truman State

By Riley Rapa, Staff Writer

Members of Wright City High School's Educators Rising chapter attended the organization's leadership conference on Nov. 21 at Truman State University, joining students from across Missouri for a day of professional development and inspiration.

Leading up to the event, members shared their excitement about the chance to network with future educators, attend breakout sessions and hear from experienced professionals in the field.

"I'm really excited to participate in the breakout rooms and hear what all the speakers have to say," said Ava Swaringen, a new member of Educators Rising. "Since I've never attended a conference like this before, that's part of why I'm so excited."

Rylee Koehler, another member of the chapter, echoed that enthusiasm.

"The conference is going to be so fun," Koehler said. "I'm super excited about hearing from the speakers and getting an opportunity to learn more about EdRising."

Keynote speakers at the event included Brianna Mann and Matt Kennedy, who spoke to students about leadership, motivation and the path to becoming an educator. Throughout the day, attendees participated in breakout sessions, where they engaged in interactive activities, connected with peers from other schools and learned practical strategies for leadership and personal growth.

The conference wrapped up with a Q&A session, giving students the chance to reflect on what they learned and ask questions directly to the speakers.

Wright City's Educators Rising chapter expressed their appreciation for the opportunity to attend the conference and said they are eager to apply their new knowledge as they prepare for upcoming competitions.
