When a teacher undertakes a unit of study which might be viewed as controversial, or that contains elements or activities which might be viewed as controversial, the following steps are recommended:

1. Meet and discuss the proposed unit, instructional activity, and/or program with the site administrator

2. When deemed appropriate by the administrator and/or teacher, parents or guardians will be notified in advance of the proposed instructional activity. Parents or guardians may request that an alternative instructional activity be provided for their child
