Beyond the Copy-Paste Classroom: A Collaborative Collage Zine (2026)

About this zine

This collaborative zine is the outcome of "Beyond the Copy-Paste Classroom: A Collage Zine Workshop," facilitated by Katie Conrad and Audrey Watters at the Humans First: Adolescent Education in the Age of AI Conference at Marist School, Atlanta, on July 31, 2026.

After a short history of zines and collage, workshop participants were given the following prompt:

Create a page that expresses the way you feel,
at this moment, about education.
What you want to preserve?
What are you hopeful about?
and/or
What do you want to refuse or resist?

Participants could choose to keep their pages or include them in the zine, either with credit or anonymously.

is the game playing you?

"She's actually a little cuddle monkey, as long as you don't question any of her long-held political beliefs."

SLENDER OFFERING

Everything has its dwindling.
Everything was dwindling.

The old elegance of my heart became as small
As a coffin carved for a scarab which lived

Three thousand years ago and died of sun
And scalpel, supernatural, but musical.

Half a life ago, when there were blizzards
We would steal milk from the chimera's young.

Such small unnatural selections as we are.

The love of me—impossible as a boat made of the orchids
Of Numidia which you keep cased in a bottle

Blown in the shape
Of certain kindnesses.

[illegible]hings rust. No evidence of birds; no evidence of flight.
I am glad I will not be here when the world is warm.

COME ALIVE

Do not ask your children
to strive for extraordinary lives.
Such striving may seem admirable,
but it is the way of foolishness.
Help them instead to find the wonder
and the marvel of an ordinary life.
Show them the joy of tasting
tomatoes, apples, and pears.
Show them how to cry
when pets and people die.
Show them the infinite pleasure
in the touch of a hand.
And make the ordinary come alive for them.
The extraordinary will take care of itself.
