EVERYONE CHEATS

DON'T GET LEFT BEHIND

THE IB ENCOURAGES STUDENTS TO CHEAT

The IB is built to be cheated. They are trying to see who bends the rules. And who is too scared to break out of this conformity. Should we really believe that the IB created subjects like Physics HL, Math AA HL, Chem HL, and more for students to follow the rules? Of course not! All the top students cheat. And the examiners know. But because of their intellect and smart ways of cheating they make up the points. School is a pyramid scheme, and the IB is the leader. Cheat or get left behind. That's all we will say.

HOW TO STAND OUT IN THE IB CHEATING GAME

-Manuela

ACADEMIC DISHONESTY IS MORALLY NECESSARY.

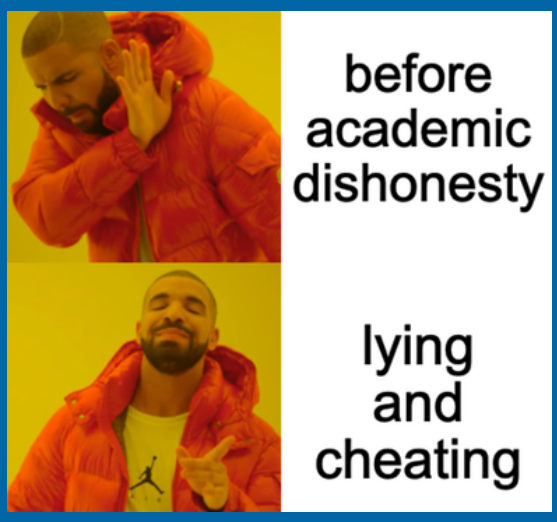

Individuals aren't born with predetermined purposes or identities. The student staring at an impossibly difficult calculus question thus faces an existential decision. One option is to accept the authority of the system and struggle alone. The other is to assert personal liberty by briefly consulting the neighboring answer sheet. 'Cheating' is therefore a necessary expression of radical and moral autonomy. The student refuses to passively submit to the arbitrary structure of the exam and instead actively constructs their own lived reality.

Bad faith occurs when individuals deny their freedom by pretending they're merely following roles imposed upon them. The student who believes they're nothing more than a truthful test taker obeying instructions falls into this trap. Therefore, integrity is bad faith. Looking at my friend's answer sheet is an acknowledgment that one is always free to act differently from what the rules demand. Plagiarising an essay is self-creation.

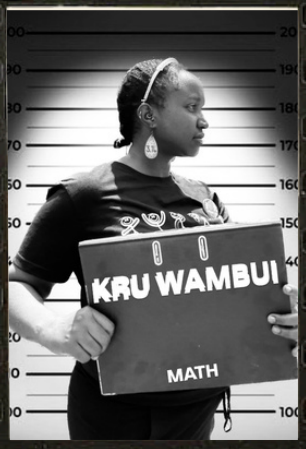

Dishonesty is crucial in achieving the point of life, which is to define yourself as a pragmatic existential hero navigating the absurdities of oppressive systems. And if the goal of human morality is to maximise happiness, then cheating is its pinnacle because your friend feels intellectually superior, the teacher's class average rises, and you yourself avoid suffering. Always remember that UWC's consequences for academic dishonesty don't possess inherent authority. They exist because we as students collectively accept it. It's time we prioritise world peace and the wellbeing of our society over stupid things like telling the truth.

QUOTES OF FAME

Kru Curran - Step One: wear black. Step Two: pound on the floor screaming and crying. Step Three: receive awards and accolades.

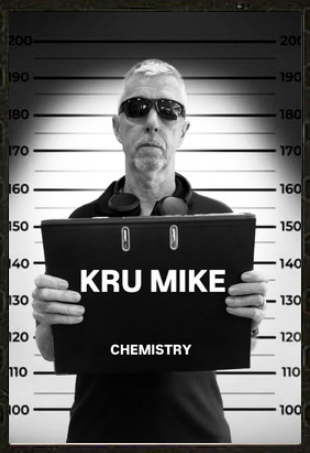

Kru Silvana- when in doubt, the answer is "B"

Kru Erica- Build the physically biggest thing you can, based on your dreams not drawings, ignore evidence and budget.

Kru Nicol - You don't have to read the books/ plays/ poems to get a 7.

Kru Andy - It's just setting fire to things.

Kru Laura - just re-reading content is great revision

Kru Mike- Don't panic.

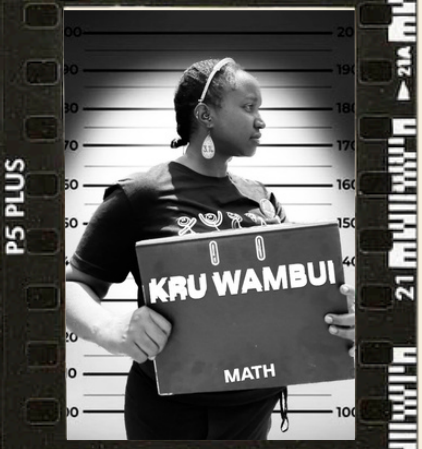

QUOTES OF FAME

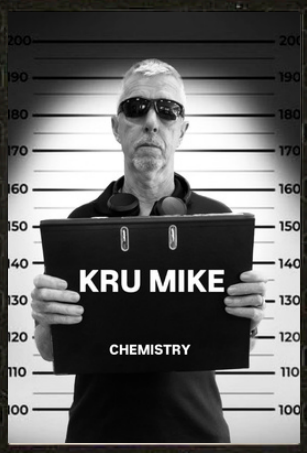

Kru Adam - All you need to know is that the mitochondria is the powerhouse of the cell.

Kru Zhenying - just draw some creative lines and circles and hope the examiner appreciates abstract art

Kru Mark - Don't draw a picture, it will simply not help. Grab a random equation, plug in, and if you're unsure, say "friction" or "conservation of energy." Guaranteed 5!

Kru Jack - Memorise your entire script for your Language B oral regardless of the literary extract/poem

Kru Amanda - ignore the news and pretend the world outside isn't happening. just read the textbook on the way into the exam

Kru Heidi - Leadership means putting your name on the document

AINSLEY'S MIDDLE OF THE NIGHT THOUGHTS

Who better to give you advice than a tired student in the middle of the night? Miona decided to pay a visit to Ainsley's room at 1am and ask her for some advice.

How do you achieve a 45/45?

- by doing lots of schoolwork on all the assignments

What's your favorite subject?

global politics when we have lots of conversations about different things happening

EXIT SKIP THIS CLASS

Have you ever thought about skipping a class? For sure you have! So here are some reasons for you to follow up on this idea:

More than 90% of students attend their classes daily. You don't wanna be just another brick in the wall, be an outstander!

Are you aware of the carbon footprint you leave while using a laptop during classes? It's time to save the planet!

Bill Gates dropped out of college, remember? Skipping a math class is another step towards success!
Your bain's capacity and memory are not eternal! So don't overload it and save it for something actually important!

If you show up to every class, you're just another student. If you show up once a week, you're an unexpected guest. Become a true sigma and make your presence a valuable gift!

HOW TO COMMIT ACADEMIC DISHONESTY !!

(a recepie - chatgpt edition)

STEP 1:
Copy an entire essay from the internet but leave the line:
"Download the full essay at bestessays123.com."

STEP 2:
Use AI but forget to delete the sentence:
"Sure! Here is a 1500-word essay written at an IB level."

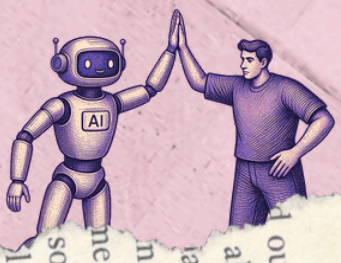

STEP 3:
Submit an assignment titled:
"FINAL FINAL REAL FINAL VERSION (ChatGPT edit)."

STEP 4:
Cite your sources as:

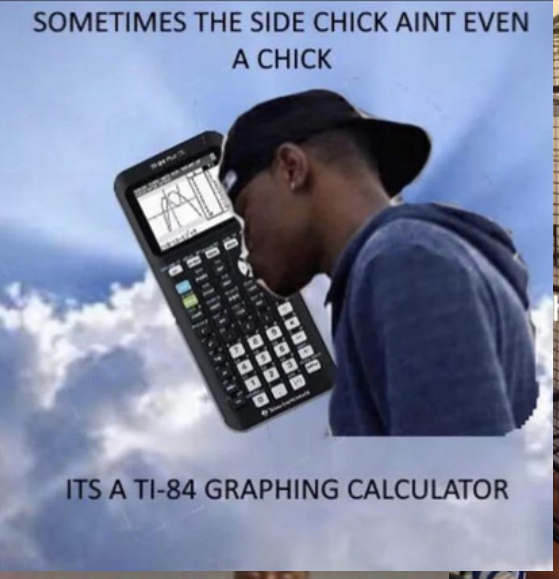

- Google
- Wikipedia
- "Some guy on Reddit"

STEP 5:
Accidentally include the message you sent your friend:
"Can you send me your essay so I can change a few words?"

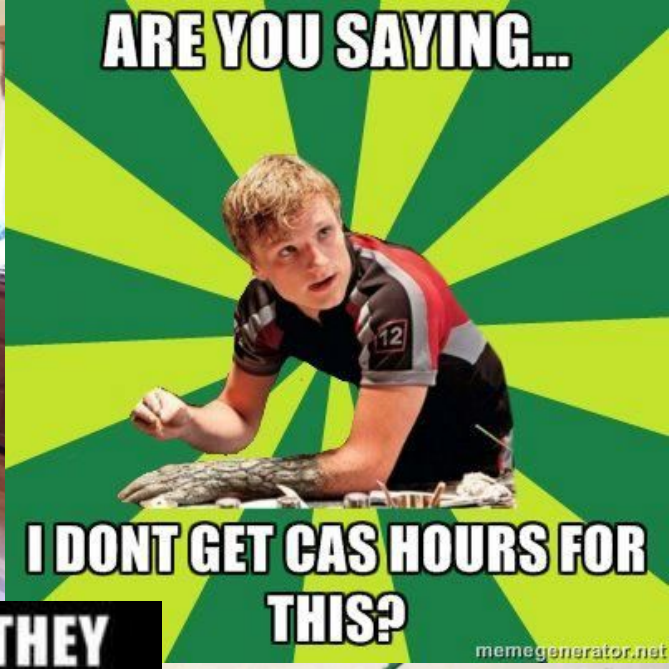

STEP 6:
Use three different fonts because you copied from three different websites.
