Director's Notes

Since the days of Aristophanes and Shakespeare, political theatre has played a significant role in our culture. It calls for an open minded critical examination of our democracy and its leaders. The Manchurian Candidate is no exception. Despite their inability to cast a vote, our students have tackled issues in our play that many in our country grappled with this election season: (a) the role of the United States as a peace keeping force in the world; (b) the role of lobbyists in our government; (c) the role of the media during wartime and elections; and (d) the role of morality in politics. Two of our main characters, Senator Iselin & Mrs. Iselin, believe in "half truths that are accurate." They are driven by an internal lust for power that manifests itself externally in murder, bigotry, and betrayal. Their immoral racist attitudes undermine the real American dream: truth and justice for all.
