

My name is Brittany Grenbemer, and I am so excited to be joining the Coquille Valley Elementary community! Before making the move to the coast, I lived in Eugene for seven years, where I attended the University of Oregon (go ducks!) and earned my Master's in Elementary Education. After completing my degree, I taught fifth grade in Creswell. I am thrilled to now have the opportunity to teach third grade!

Third grade is such an exciting year filled with new challenges, discoveries, and so many opportunities for students to grow. Students are becoming more independent, diving deeper into reading and writing, building their math skills, and discovering what they are capable of. I am looking forward to creating a classroom where students feel welcomed, supported, and excited to learn. My goal is for every student to know that they are capable, valued, and an important part of our classroom community. Throughout the school year, we will work together to build strong relationships, develop independence, and grow both academically and personally. I believe that students are most successful when teachers and families work as a team, so communication and partnership with families will be an important part of our year together. When I'm not in Room 16, I love being as active as possible! I enjoy river rafting with my fiancé, discovering new running trails, and doing mat Pilates. I also love to read and drink as much iced coffee as I possibly can. I am so thankful for the opportunity to be at Coquille Valley Elementary, and I cannot wait to see all of the learning, growth, and memories this year will bring. Thank you for sharing your children with me. I am looking forward to a wonderful year together!

Kindly,
Miss Grenbemer
