Educational Services will provide the Board with an overview of the district's assessment system and the structures used to turn student evidence into instructional action. The study session connects i-Ready, classroom and curriculum assessments, early-literacy screeners and diagnostics, and Professional Learning Communities (PLCs). The central message is that no single assessment determines a student's need: teachers use multiple measures to identify who may need support, diagnose the specific skill gap, plan instruction or intervention, and monitor the student's response.
